PRICE FOUR CENTS

Cut in State Department Expenditures and in All Capital Outlays Is Urged

Program Defining "Desirable Governmental Objectives and Establishing" a Fixed Fiscal Policy Advocated

The June Brides
Amend Bill Under Which Legislation Is Asked to Reduce Six-Day Waiting Period

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 28 (AP)—A ten per cent reduction in state department expenditures as proposed in New York's 1939-40 record budget and a "sharp curtailment" in all capital outlays was urged in the legislature today to bring an "abrupt halt" to spending increases.

A resolution by Republican Senator Pliny W. Williamson of Westchester also advocated development of a long range program defining "desirable governmental objectives" and establishing a "fixed fiscal policy."

"Such action," Williamson told the senate, "would allay past or present fears and anxieties concerning governmental purposes which have caused widespread lack of confidence, have acted as a deterrent to full business recovery and have prevented the solution of the problem of unemployment."

The measure, which would require assembly approval prior to adoption, was referred by the new Senate Republican Leader Joe R. Hanley to the finance committee.

Williamson's resolution asserted that mounting government costs as portrayed in Democratic Governor Lehman's proposed $11,682,122 budget for the next fiscal year, have resulted in "the dual evils of rising tax burdens and pyramiding of long and short term government debt."

Continuation of this trend, he asserted, may result in "repudiation, inflation or capital levies, any of which threaten the people and the security of their business enterprises, in the preservation of their homes and in the welfare of their very lives."

He also proposed that the coming year be based on "a reasonable understanding of the ability of the taxpayer to meet the cost," and the setting of an "example" by the state to the tax districts in the handling of financial problems.

Submission of the resolution followed the largest "tax protest" hearing in the capitol's history last week when crowds estimated at nearly 7,000 persons protested the record high budget and three tax proposals to help finance it.

The proposed new levies which were expected to raise $64,000,000 included a $1-a-$1,000 assessment on real estate, a 50 per cent increase in the present $1-a-gallon levy on hard liquor, and a two-tenths of one per cent tax on gross business turnover.

A bill under which New York's Legislature is asked to reduce the approximate six-day "waiting period" required of prospective newlyweds was amended today to "take care of the June brides" and curb "high pressuring" by officials for immediate, civil weddings.

One of the amendments offered by Republican assemblyman Jane Todd, Westchester county sponsor of the measure, would make the effective date June 1 instead of July 1.

"This is to take care of this year's June brides," Miss Todd explained.

The other change would retain 24 hours of the 72-hour wait now required between issuance of the license and the wedding.

As originally drawn, the proposal would have had the 72-hour period start with the taking of a required blood test for syphilis. The wait would then have run concurrently with the time required for a laboratory checkup on the blood test before a license could be issued, making a 3-day delay in all. The two three-day periods are now consecutive—before and after issuance of the license.

Miss Todd said retention of 24 hours of the wait after the license is obtained—making the total period four days instead of the present six—was urged principally by church groups.

"It is intended," she explained, "to stop high pressuring of couples by license-issuing officials for immediate, civil weddings. The church people believe the one-day wait would turn their thoughts instead to religious ceremonies."

New Leader

SENATOR JOE R. HANLEY

Hanley's Election Seen as Victory For Upstate Bloc

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 28 (AP)—Senator Joe R. Hanley, of Perry, gathered up the Republican Senate reins today after his election to the majority leadership in what was viewed as a victory for an upstate bloc opposing alleged "New York city domination" of the party.

The 62-year-old Perry, N. Y., clergyman, attorney and veteran of two wars was elected on the sixth ballot, in a Senate Republican caucus yesterday, to succeed the late Senator Percy A. Mitchell, of Watertown.

Hanley's chief opposition for the post came from Senator Benjamin Feinberg, of Plattsburgh, authoritatively reported to have had the backing of influential state chiefs of the party and party officials of the New York city wing of the leadership.

Hanley, however, received seven votes on the first ballot, a reliable source reported, and gained steadily until he obtained the 14 that constituted a majority of the 26-member Republican Senate bloc. Although Feinberg's strength held up to give him eight votes on the final ballot, sufficient of early support given to Senator C. Tracey Staggs, Ithaca, shifted to Hanley to elect him.

Two votes went to Staggs on the final ballot, while Thomas C. Desmond, Newburgh, and Senator Arthur H. Wicks, Kingston, received one each. Hanley's election was then made unanimous.

The new leader represents the 44th district which includes portions of Genesee, Wyoming, Albany and Livingston counties.

He is a resident of Wyoming, where the party organization is headed by County Chairman James E. Nash, one of the organizers of the upstate Republican leadership bloc which, since the Republican state convention last year, has campaigned for "a greater voice" in party councils.

Hanley's post as chairman of the education committee, it was indicated, will go to Staggs.

Leaders Striving to Bring About Voluntary Continuance of Invalidated Milk Marketing Agreement

Regional Meetings

Action Will Depend on Result of Nine Regional Meetings to Be Held Tomorrow

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 28 (AP)—Complete cooperation of all factions was sought today by leaders to bring about voluntary continuance of an invalidated federal-state milk marketing agreement, voted yesterday at a mass meeting of 5,000 New York state dairymen in Syracuse.

As directors of the various factions of producers and marketers struggled with problems arising from last week's court decisions which found the federal-state marketing agreement for the New York city metropolitan area unconstitutional, and the state Rogers-Allyn milk control law illegal, a state legislator sought an investigation of the entire industry.

Another introduced an amendment to the Rogers-Allyn law intended to satisfy legal objections to the act.

State Agriculture Commissioner Holton V. Noyes, who urged "voluntary agreements" at yesterday's mass meeting, emphasized the suggestion that marketing procedures would be identical with operations under the invalidated marketing order, thus requiring dealers to pay producers on the basis of prices in effect at the time of the adverse court ruling.

The proposed contract stipulated retention of Erskine M. Harmon as market administrator, with power to the state agriculture commissioner to appoint a substitute.

Whether the voluntary agreement becomes effective will depend, industry leaders said, on the vote and subsequent action of those attending nine regional meetings called tomorrow to discuss the program.

If the producers vote to cooperate, and the dealers agree to the provisions, the program will continue in effect until July 31.

Members of the Metropolitan Milk Producers Bargaining Agency, who met in Syracuse today, voted to withhold milk from dealers who refuse to voluntarily sign agreement by midnight Saturday.

The base price when the operation of the marketing plan was held unconstitutional was $2.45 a hundredweight, and it is proposed that this price be continued under the new voluntary agreement.

Iowa's Heaviest Snowfall
Des Moines, Iowa, Feb. 28 (AP)—A paralyzing 17-inch snow storm which the weather bureau said was "unquestionably the heaviest February snowfall in Iowa's history" swept down over the state today tying up traffic and hampering communication.

Virtually the whole state felt its stalling blasts although central and northern Iowa appeared the worst hit. Street car traffic was at a standstill. Roads were blocked. Planes were grounded and busses tied up in many Iowa cities. Railroads reported most trains were getting through but said any increase in wind velocity would pile up impassable drifts.

Lover's Lane Deaths

Joliet, Ill., Feb. 28 (AP)—The mysterious lover's lane deaths of two young students prompted officials to consider a grand jury investigation today of conditions at the Joliet Township High School. The students, Ruth Virginia Underwood, 17, and William Engemann, 18, were found dead in an automobile parked on a wooded park road. Coroner Louis Brannon said the girl died of strangulation and that Engemann presumably died of carbon monoxide poisoning several hours later. The girl was clad only in shoes and stockings.

Pope's Election Tomorrow

Vatican City, Feb. 28 (AP)—Cardinals arranged their affairs today for voluntary imprisonment in the conclave to elect a new Pope which starts tomorrow. They met briefly in the congregation as they have daily since the death of Pius XI, then turned individually to personal affairs. The opening of the conclave awaited only the arrival of Cardinal O'Connell of Boston and the two Latin American cardinals, Lemo and Copello.

Forfeited His Bail

Anthony Carineta of New York city was arrested Monday evening by the police on a charge of failing to observe the red traffic light at Hasbrouck and Foxhall avenues. He deposited $5 cash bail for his appearance in police court today, and when he failed to appear the bail was ordered forfeited by Judge Cahill.

Spanish Head Resigns

Opposition Attacks British-French Recognition of Spanish Nationalists As Europe Now Awaits Next Moves of Gen. Franco

Collognes-Sous-Saleve, France, Feb. 28 (AP)—Manuel Azana, in a letter made public today, resigned as president of the Spanish Republican government.

The letter was addressed to Diego Martinez Barrio, president of the Republican Cortes (Parliament) and Azana's constitutional successor.

Azana, who came here yesterday from Paris where he had lived since Generalissimo Franco's troops cleaned up Catalonia, had withheld publication of his resignation until after French-British recognition of Franco's regime as the legitimate government of France.

The letter was sent to Paris by special messenger yesterday—the day on which France and Britain ceased to regard the Republican regime as Spain's real government.

The letter of resignation was disclosed here by Azana's brother-in-law, Cipriano Rivas Cherif. Azana was in exile at a nearby estate with his family.

Martinez Barrio, under the Spanish constitution, is required to receive a presidential resignation and the constitution designates him as successor to the presidency. He was in Paris.

Labor Board Critics Press for Amendments

Federal Wage-Hour Law Prosecutions

Boston, Feb. 28 (AP)—The government's first criminal prosecution for violation of the federal wagehour law ended today with pleas of guilty, and imposition of fines totaling $1,500.

The pleas of guilty were entered to federal indictments charging the Brown Contract Stamping, Inc., a Lawrence shoe company, and Nathan Brown, treasurer and general manager of the corporation, failed to pay the required 25 cents an hour minimum wage, falsified records, failed to keep required records and put goods thus produced into interstate commerce.

Brown was fined $1,000 and the corporation $500. The government agents contended the corporation had saved between $700 and $1,000 through evasion of the law.

Counsel for the defendants advised Federal Judge Elisha H. Brewster, before he pronounced sentence, that full restitution would be made to employees.

Gross Named Head Of Auto Dealers

C. J. Gross was elected president of the Automotive Dealers of Kingston at its recent annual meeting. Mr. Gross succeeded A. H. Chambers, who had served the association for several years as president. A. F. Doyle was elected vice president and Peter A. Black was named treasurer. Monroe T. Southard was re-elected secretary.

The annual meeting was held at the Governor Clinton Hotel and was preceded by dinner.

It was agreed that regular monthly meetings of the association should be held in the future and President Gross announced the next meeting would be held March 16.

Speakers praised the splendid cooperation which was being given by the state association and after a discussion in which the benefits of the state association membership were pointed out, the dealers agreed to make application for membership.

Probe Crossing Crash

Pasco, Wash., Feb. 28 (AP)—Railway officials and county authorities investigated today the crossing collision of a Northern Pacific passenger train and a Union Pacific freight train in which two trainmen were killed and two others were injured. Cattle-loaded freight car was smashed. The passenger train, a "local" bound for connection with Seattle, ran broadside into the freight at the Altalia crossing, about 12 miles southeast of here, at 9 o'clock last night.

23 Killed in Mine

Ankara, Turkey, Feb. 28 (AP)—Twenty-three workmen were killed today in a mine explosion in the Zonguldak coal fields bordering on the Black Sea.

Knaust Brothers Bid In Quarries For Mushrooms

Knaust Brothers, mushroom growers, were the successful bidders for the lease of the old, abandoned Newark Lime and Cement Company quarries, now owned by the city. Their bid was $2,015 per annum for the use of the quarries.

For several years Knaust Brothers have been using the old quarries for growing mushrooms; leasing the quarries from the city on a yearly basis. They are planning major improvements to the plant and sought a 5-year lease.

Borah Declares Army Expansion Bill "A Lot Of Bluff and Jitterism"

Oratory on Foreign Policy Forces Senate Leaders to Abandon Plans for Quick Passage of Army Bill

Foreign Policy

Vandenberg Raps Suggestions Country Take Steps "Short of War" to Aid Democracies

Washington, Feb. 28 (AP)—An outburst of oratory on foreign policy forced Senate leaders today to abandon plans for quick passage of the $358,000,000 army expansion bill.

A series of lengthy addresses that started yesterday showed signs of continuing for several days. A dozen Senators, including Borah (R-Idaho) and Nye (R-ND), waited their turn to carry on the debate.

The bill, which would carry out a major portion of President Roosevelt's defense program, would provide $300,000,000 for air corps expansion, $33,750,000 for Panama Canal defenses, and $24,500,000 for "educational orders" to familiarize manufacturers with army needs.

Senator Clark (D-Mo) served notice he would fight for an amendment limiting the army to 5,500 planes, the total voted by the House. The Senate committee approved a limit of 6,000.

Senator Johnson (D-Colo.) disclosed that one point of controversy had been removed by an army decision to withdraw its support of a proposal exempting the "educational orders" from existing labor standards legislation.

(The present law forbids government contracts with manufacturers who fail to observe designated labor standards.)

Yesterday's session found speakers stressing foreign policy, with several touching on the recent House rejection of proposed plane facilities at Guam.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) led criticism of administration foreign policy, contending particularly suggestions that the country take steps "short of war" to aid European democracies.

"We are a long, long way from war unless we seek it," he said. "Our task is to be calm, confident and resolute. We are not—we cannot not be—the world's protector or the world's policeman."

Senator Logan (D-Ky.) asserted that if the United States wants to defend South America from aggression, it would be wise to aid Great Britain and France.

"France and England," he said, "are just as important to the defense of the United States as any South American country."

While the Senate considered the army bill, the House leadership ticketed the $1,700,000,000 treasury post office appropriations bill for passage.

Committees in both House and Senate considered measures to eliminate freight rate differentials between the north and south.

The House coinage committee tackled the touchy issue of continuing the administration's $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund, linked with it is the question of renewing the President's power to revalue the dollar. Both the fund and the revaluation authority expire June 30.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Feb. 28 (AP)—The position of the treasury February 28 receipts, $3,302,561,777; expenditures, $2,719,220,550; net balance, $583,341,227. Including $2,732,105,522.29 working balance; customs receipts for the month, $19,733,559.73. Receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1), $2,621,051,751.09; expenditures, $5,828,771,742.81, including $1,935,334,962.84 of emergency expenditures; excess of expenditures, $2,197,719,991.84; gross debt, $32,815,021,303.66; decrease of $2,093,214.47 below the previous day; gold assets, $14,534,345,933.66.

Arab-Jewish Terrorism

Jerusalem, Feb. 28 (AP)—British troops, acting to put down a new wave of Arab-Jewish terrorism in which 34 persons had been slain this week, killed 16 men today in a battle with a large armed band on the northern frontier of Palestine. Royal airforce warplanes aided the soldiers. Another disastrous bomb explosion in Jerusalem probably was averted when police seized a time bomb in the David street market where three persons were killed and six wounded in explosions yesterday. The bomb was suspended from an air hole in the roof of the market.

Crew Rescued

Oslo, Norway, Feb. 28 (AP)—The crew of the sealer Isbjell, in distress in the North Atlantic, was rescued today by the Drottningholm, Swedish transatlantic liner. The Isbjell was one of five Norwegian sealing vessels in trouble or missing in a gale yesterday.

After Marian Anderson, (above) Negro contralto, was refused permission by the Daughters of the American Revolution to use Constitution Hall in Washington for a recital, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt announced she had resigned from the organization with whose policies she could not agree.

Ulster's World Fair Exhibits to Be Chosen Mar. 1

The selection of articles to be included in the Ulster county exhibit at the World's Fair, as part of the exhibit of Region 3, will be made at the Governor Clinton Hotel Wednesday, March 1, according to notice sent out by the Ulster County World's Fair Committee. The committee is composed of Albert Kurdt, chairman; Allan Hanstein and Howard Grimm.

The articles submitted are to be at the hotel at 11 a. m. Wednesday, a temporary exhibit will be set up and then Hans P. Weber, coordinator of exhibits for the World's Fair Commission, will make the selection. His selection will be final.

The committee states that "The items ultimately selected for Region 3 will be the most outstanding examples of the arts, crafts, literary works, historical documents, antiques, industrial articles, etc., to be found in Orange, Rockland, Sullivan and Ulster counties."

Each item ultimately selected will be suitably labeled as to the owner or producer, origin, etc. Articles which are suitable for immediate shipment will be packed and shipped, carrying insurance in an amount specified by the owner. Other items, particularly literary and historical, will be taken to the fair later. All articles selected will be covered by full insurance for the duration of the fair.

Only miniature paintings will be considered for this exhibit. Others will be exhibited in the art department, in another building.

The space available for Region 3 exhibits consists of six wall cases with glass shelves and two glass-top floor cases, 2 1/2 feet wide and six feet long.

Baby Beaten

The father of William Perry, Jr., (above) three months old, was arrested at Paterson, N. J., on charges of assault and mayhem and held without bail for the grand jury, after Little William suffered a broken jaw and blackened eyes. The elder William Perry is 31, and unemployed chauffeur.

Morgenthau Says Administration Has No Intention of Changing Value of Dollar Unless Emergency Arises

Tax Relief

Asks Congress to Limit Application of Unemployment Compensation to $3,000

Washington, Feb. 28 (AP)—Senator Borah (R-Ida.) said today that the administration's air corps and army expansion bill was "just a lot of bluff and jitterism."

Borah, ranking minority member of the Senate foreign relations committee, told reporters that the 3,700 additional planes which would be authorized under the program "are more than the army can use."

He said military experts had admitted this to him. "If it weren't for a bad case of jitterism," Borah added, "they (the administration) never would have suggested that we decorate that sand dune on the other side of the Pacific."

The Idahoan referred to the administration suggestion, rejected by the House, that a naval base be established on the tiny island of Guam in the western Pacific.

Borah said he would make a Senate speech on the bill later. The measure would provide $358,000,000 for additional planes and aviation personnel, for strengthening Panama Canal defenses and for "educational" purchases to familiarize manufacturers with army equipment needs.

Other developments of the day: Paul C. Kelly, vice president of the American Retail Federation, suggested that Congress business a measure of tax relief by limiting the application of the federal unemployment compensation tax to the first $3,000 of an individual's wages.

Witnesses from widely separated parts of the country asked the House agriculture committee to approve a cost-of-production farm bill as a substitute for the present farm program.

Joseph B. Eastman, a member of the Interstate commerce commission, testified before a Senate interstate commerce subcommittee in favor of a proposal to give the ICC additional power to establish through railroad routes.

Willis J. Dallingier, advisor to the federal trade commission, told the monopoly investigating committee that free competition was essential if this country was to avoid some form of authoritarian government.

Secretary Morgenthau told Congress today the administration had no intention of changing the value of the dollar unless an emergency arose.

Reading a prepared statement to the House coinage committee on President Roosevelt's request for extension of his power to change the gold value of the dollar and to operate the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund, Morgenthau said:

"The fact that we have kept the gold value of the dollar stable (at $35 per ounce) through the international monetary disturbances and alarms of the past five years should be adequate assurance that there is neither desire nor intent on the part of this administration to alter the gold value of the dollar except under circumstances which clearly demand such action."

The treasury secretary described the power to change the dollar value as "a weapon in reserve" and said it was as important in the monetary field as the navy was in war.

He asserted it was unwise for the United States to "tie its hands" by permanently fixing the dollar's gold value at a time when no other important country in the world had taken such action.

Discussing the stabilization fund, the secretary asserted that the operations of this secret agency in foreign exchange markets saved American trade from disruption in the recent Czechoslovakian crisis and other international upheavals.

The powers which the President asked to be extended until January 15, 1941, are slated to expire June 30.

Free Competition Essential

A government economist asserted to the monopoly investigating committee today that free competition was essential if this country is to avoid some form of authoritarian government.

The witness was Willis J. Dallingier, advisor to the federal trade commission. He warned that undesired ends might result from well-meant attempts to stabilize business. "If, in an effort to prevent unfair trade practices, free business is permitted to organize and establish its own rules of action,"

Praises Leaders For Showing of Ulster 4-H Clubs

Announcement by Professor W. J. Wright of Ithaca that reports from the 4-H Clubs of New York state show that Ulster county 4-H Club members led the state in 1938 in completing their work projects. The report shows that 88.2 per cent of the 4-H Club members in the county "finished what they started."

Ulster County 4-H Agent Edmund R. Bower, who is completing two years as agent here, expressed himself as highly gratified at the showing made by the local boys and girls. He said, however, that the lion's share of credit for the showing, outside of that due to the 4-H members themselves, should go to the faithful and conscientious leaders throughout the county, who give so much of their time and effort to the 4-H work and who do all in their power to keep the boys and girls interested in their projects.

In 1937 Ulster county stood third in proportion of projects completed, the percentage being 84 per cent.

Not only did the Ulster 4-H Clubs show a gain in work accomplished in 1938, but they also registered a gain in membership of 118 over 1937.

In all there are 46 counties which make appropriations for 4-H work and in 18 of these increased funds were granted the past year.

In membership, Delaware county leads the state, with an enrollment of 1354. The total for the state is 30,163 members, with the boys leading the girls, 15,777 to 14,386. That there should be great interest in the work in Delaware county is logical. Mr. Bowers said, quoting a statement to the effect that there are communities in this big dairy county which have the largest cow population in the world in proportion to area.

America's War Games

Miami, Fla., Feb. 28 (AP)—America's unprecedented war games in the South Atlantic were a matter of history today and President Roosevelt and the navy's leading admirals met off southeastern Puerto Rico to discuss whether they proved the fleet could withstand a foreign attack in the West Indies area. The cruiser Houston, the President's flagship, reported to White House offices here late last night that the annual maneuvers—testing the continental defenses—were officially terminated at 1 p. m. yesterday after a "general fleet engagement" which began at daylight.

Maggie Flies Into

Course of Bullet
MELBOURNE, AUSTRALIA.—Australian sportsmen labor under greater inconveniences from birds than sportsmen in any other part of the world. In addition to the huge crows which amuse themselves by carrying off golf balls, a magpie got in its work during a rifle match here by swooping down and intercepting the bullet of a contestant.

INMATES OF PRISON FIND USE FOR TIME

Many Devote Their Talents
To Inventions.

FOLSOM PRISON, CALIF.—Convicts in Folsom prison do more than break rocks and sleep in their cells. Many inmates improve their time with writing and inventing.

When one invented a gadget to measure the speed of a typewriter, he received general attention. It was such a simple invention and yet so handy, particularly in business schools.

One of the most peculiar inventions was a double barreled fountain pen for bookkeepers, that changes from red to black ink at the flip of a lever. Another man brought out an improved shock absorber which is now standard equipment on a well-known truck.

Newspapers, magazines and trade publications have recognized the ability pent up within prison walls and buy many ideas for contests, promotional campaigns and selling features. One of the men worked out a parlor game which soon will be paying him royalties. Many free lance writers are busy behind prison bars. Musicians compose songs which find a ready sale. A book of yacht navigation was written by one of the inmates.

The study of law has captured the imagination of many men and while it cannot always be turned into financial gain, proves valuable in other ways. Warren Billings has studied law zealously during his many years in Folsom.

The skill in locks that many convicts possess was one reason why a man perfected a combination lock that is simple in operation but combines the best features of the ordinary spring lock and the tumbler of a safe mechanism. The combination is easily changed.

Convict Holds Record

For Brevity of Parole
MONTGOMERY, ALA.—"Out again, in again Albert" is a name that follow convicts could well apply to Albert Jackson, an inmate of Spigner state prison who undoubtedly holds some kind of record for shortness of paroles.

The man walked forth from the confines of the prison at 3 p. m. He was to have been a free man for 30 days if he behaved himself. There were chances for him to be free permanently for his parole was classed as a "test."

Jackson, however, was not free long. At 6:15 state police radio broadcasts revealed that an automobile had been stolen 35 miles north of Spigner. An hour later the newly liberated man was apprehended by highway patrolmen near Birmingham—driving the stolen auto. He was returned to Spigner prison.

Whip Snakes Out Bats In Casa Grande Ruins

COOLIDGE, ARIZ.—Whip snakes are decimating the bats that roost in the famous Casa Grande ruin, northwest of Coolidge.

Ever since this pre-Columbian fortress was discovered by the first white man who came this way, its rooms and crevices have been populated by swarms of bats. Attendants on duty for the National Park service report that whip snakes, locally known as "red racers" because of their speed and color, have moved in from adjoining fields and waxed fat in the happy hunting grounds.

They lie in wait until the bats return from their nocturnal foraging expeditions, seize them and manage to swallow them without being bitten by the bats' sharp teeth.

Crippled Dog Operates His Own Wheel Chair

RANDOLPH, MASS.—Uno, 11 years old, is believed to be one of the few dogs in the world that gets around in a self-operated wheel chair.

After Uno was injured in an automobile accident last April, his master, Richard Pilling, constructed a truck-like contraption made from two wheels of a child's tricycle, with a hammock support for the dog's body. Now Uno is able to propel himself by his forelegs, with his hindquarters resting in the carriage.

Buffalo Quick Kicker
HEADSBURG, CALIF.—William Walker, 17, probably knows more about the nervous reactions of buffalo than the average American. On a visit to the San Francisco zoo, he was so attracted by the seven bison there that he could not resist the temptation to stretch out his hand and pat one. Before he could say "Jack Robinson," the buffalo had whirled around and kicked him twice on the nose.

Just Sound Effect
Oxford, England (AP)—Bullets smashed several college windows here but police decided the missiles were fired from a catapult while a noise-maker was employed to fake the explosion.

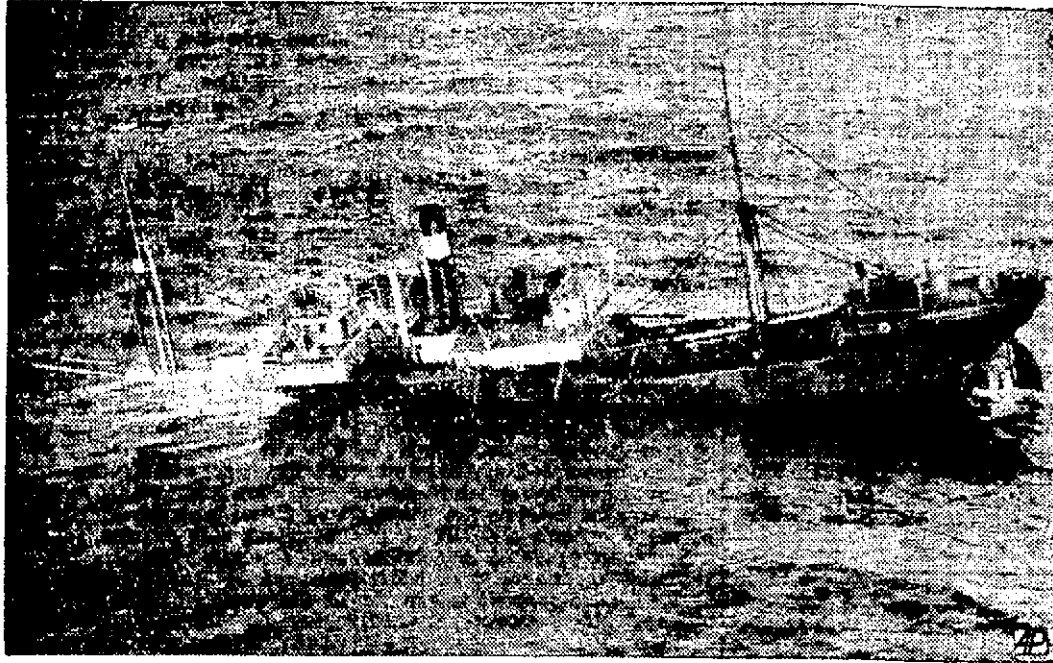

In 1938, nearly 2,000 North Carolina farmers installed home water systems ranging in cost from $16 to several hundred dollars.

REMOVE BODY FROM UTAH SNOWSLIDE

A grim group of miners recover the body of one of three men killed when a thunderous snow avalanche demolished buildings at the Hidden Treasure mine near Ophir, Utah. The mine is located in Dry Canyon, high in the Ophir mountains. The victims were Burt F. Harris, 57, Salt Lake City; Clarence M. Yates, 25, Salt Lake City, and Edward Roberts, 49, Salem, Utah. All of the bodies were recovered.

FREIGHTER SINKS AFTER CRASH OFF JERSEY COAST

The Weigand took the Lillian's crew of 31 on board. Not long after this aerial picture was made the Lillian went to the bottom with her cargo of sugar.

PORT EWEN NEWS

Port Ewen, Feb. 28.—Members of the Priscilla Society will hold a clam chowder sale Friday, March 10, at the Methodist Church house. Orders for the chowder may be telephoned to Mrs. A. H. Short, Kingston 3039-M, Mrs. Arthur Fowler, Kingston 1769-R, or Mrs. Charles Zimmerman, Kingston 86.

Mrs. Walter Carney, Mrs. Charles Hungerford, the Misses Helen and Olive Munson of this village, accompanied by the Misses Dorothy Claire and Etta Thiel, of Kingston, spent Sunday in New York city. While there they saw Hal Kemp and his orchestra, and Tony Martin in person at the Paramount. Kay Kysler's orchestra at The Strand, and had dinner at the Hotel Taft, where Enoch Light and his orchestra play for dancing.

Due to the illness of Mrs. Floyd Beesmer, there will be no meeting this week of the Junior choir of the Reformed Church.

Dairymen Await Feeding School

Ulster county dairymen, are looking forward to the two-day dairy feeding school on Wednesday and Thursday, March 1 and 2 when they meet with specialists from the Animal Husbandry department at Cornell University to consider economical feeding practices and their relation to increased dairy income. It will take place at the New Paltz Grange Hall starting at 10 a. m. each day.

The school has been arranged by the Farm Bureau Dairy Committee. The instructors will be Professor J. D. Burke and Professor J. A. Lepard.

Most recent discoveries and developments in feeding dairy cattle will be discussed during the two morning and two afternoon sessions, according to county agent, Albert Kurdt.

For some time, dairymen in this county have been urged to consider feeding more and home-grown roughages, particularly good quality hay, and to furnish improved pasture to their herd. Speakers at the school will explain why this is important and its relation to increased dairy income. Good quality hay and improved hay, says Mr. Kurdt, are the cheapest nutrients available in New York State.

The Cornell dairy feeding specialists will also discuss the use of home-grown grains in the grain mixture for the dairy herd, including Cayuga soybeans. Latest facts on grass silage will be discussed.

All dairymen are invited to attend the two-day school. Sessions start promptly at 10 o'clock in the morning, and end at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Dairymen who attend the first meetings will get the most benefit from later discussions. All dairymen are invited and all sessions are free.

Speaker Attacks Nazi 'Propaganda'

Support of the American League for Peace and Democracy to fight for peace and democracy in the United States, was urged by Miss Eleanor Dodridge Brannan, of New York city Monday evening in an address at the meeting of the Kingston branch of the league.

She said that a wave of anti-Semitism was sweeping certain parts of this country as a result of Nazi propaganda, and that it was a danger signal of what might be expected if conditions remained unchecked.

William Gandall, representing the Transport Workers' Union, was an unannounced speaker at the meeting. He attacked the Wicks transit bill. This bill, if passed, he said would place under civil service, all positions on the New York city subways in the event of transit nationalization.

Mr. Gandall claimed that Senator Wick's action in introducing the measure was suspicious in interfering in the affairs of New York city and might lead one to believe that he had made a deal either with Tammany or with the transit interests. He said that the senator might better devote his time to looking out for the interests of his own constituents in his district. He said that if the bill was passed between 15,000 and 20,000 workers face the loss of their jobs.

Nazism was described by Miss Brannan as an octopus reaching out its tentacles to touch and embrace us here. She said that the United States was an important factor in Hitler's plan of world conquest because of its wealth and because as a democracy it constituted an ever-present threat to Fascist oppression.

In telling of Nazi penetration in this country she said that the most publicized is the German-American Bund which operates 22 camps in various parts of the country. She called attention to the meeting of the Bund held recently in New York city and said it gave a significant demonstration of the position the Bund believes it holds in this country.

The second means of Nazi penetration was propaganda, she said, which has resulted in waves of anti-Semitism sweeping New York city and the mid-western states of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

The third means to the end used was the employment of spies and sabotage in army and industrial plants, stating that this was brought out clearly although superficially at the recent spy trial in New York.

Zeal for Education Faded

Among Women of Mexico Book-learning has become much of a faded among the mass of Mexican women, writes Maria Teresa Martinez in the New York Sun. Sixty per cent of Mexico's 17,000,000 population are estimated to be illiterate.

"This zeal for education begins right in the home," the writer continues. "Housewives, even the busiest of them, are taking time to master the Three R's, if they were unacquainted with those rudiments of modern learning; they are reading more and learning things of value from books. Sales of worthwhile books, magazines and newspapers have increased remarkably in the last five years, thanks to the book bug of Mexican femininity."

"Domestic servants, waitresses, shop girls and factory workers are now spending their spare time in study. It is rather common for a parlor maid to answer the doorbell with a book in her hands. Many housewives have taken the initiative of devoting time to instructing their minor help in the rudiments of learning."

"More girls than ever before are becoming schoolmarm. Pay for the teaching profession, for women as well as men, has been boosted some 50 per cent in the last few years."

"Special schools for women workers have been opened. Very many Mexican women are learning English. Some of them are such apt pupils that they get a good working knowledge of the idiom in less than a year's intensive study."

Natural Caves in France Are Bomb-Proof Shelters

Few countries are so fortunate as France in the matter of ready-made air-raid shelters.

Particularly in the north and east are these dugouts to be found. They are a relic of the war-like Middle Ages when almost every village was provided with such a refuge. Often a natural cave, which had been carefully enlarged, would receive the villagers and their cattle.

The most famous of these hidden refuges is the "underground city" of Naours, near Amiens. It contains a great number of chambers so arranged that their entrances do not face each other—private apartments, as it were. There is also a large hall, and one chamber shows traces of having been used as a chapel.

Not far from this is another refuge, this time a tunnel 80 yards long with rooms on each side.

Today a census of these caves is being taken. This is a part of the local anti-aircraft precautions. Before long the dugouts will be fitted up for use if needed.

The cave of Naours were well known to the Australian soldiers during the Great War. On the chalk walls of the caves, almost as fresh as when penciled 20 or more years ago, are the names of hundreds of Australians, often with a drawing of the regimental badge.—Answers.

Pay No More Than Five Cents For a Nickel

Washington, Feb. 28 (AP)—Pay no more than five cents for a nickel.

That's the advice of the United States Treasury, after hearing rumors that scalpers have obtained as high as $1 each for the new Jefferson nickels in the erroneous information the coins were faulty and would be recalled.

Secret service officers said they knew of no federal offense for scalping nickels, but warned scalpers they might run afoul of local fraud laws.

Forty million Jefferson nickels have been minted, but 90,000,000 buffalo nickels still are in circulation. Present production of the Jefferson type at Philadelphia, Denver and San Francisco mints is at the rate of more than 5,000,000 a month.

The Oldest Code

Hammurabi, the king of Babylon, formulated his code about 2200 B. C., much earlier than the laws of Manu or of Moses. The pillar containing the code was unearthed in 1902 in the acropolis mound at Susa. It contained about 3,000 lines of writing in 49 columns, some five of which were practically erased. The code was divided into about 280 clauses and opens with the words: "Law and justice I established in the land. I made happy the human race in those days." Exact laws were laid down governing labor, wages, witchcraft, sanctity of oath, requirement for written evidence, public duties of officials, moral laws which were exceedingly strict, protection of legal and personal rights of women, laws of divorce and alimony and practically every human activity.

All of which explains why Papa and Mama Gubitosi and their family, shown in Hollywood, look so happy.

Kingston Legion Auxiliary Hears Committee Reports

The regular monthly meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary, Kingston Unit 150, was held at the Legion Building Friday night, February 24.

The membership chairman, Mrs. Chris. Roche, reported 125 members to date, including 22 new members. The junior group chairman, Mrs. E. Hillis, told of the activities of her group. They are making scrap books for the hospitals besides having a special hour at their monthly meetings.

It was decided to hold a baked ham and roast pork supper at the Legion Building, Thursday evening, March 23. After the business meeting the ladies joined the men and enjoyed a talk by Roger Loughran on "Lincoln and Washington in the Light of Current Events." Refreshments were served afterwards. The regular monthly county meeting will be held in the Legion Building this evening. All members are urged to attend.

Board of Health To Enforce Code

Following the lodging of several complaints the Board of Health on Wednesday will rigidly enforce the regulation in the city's sanitary code that requires all breads, biscuits, pies and other baked goods, offered for sale in the city, be protected before leaving the store or shop by par-am paper or other proper dust and fly proof covering.

This regulation, which was adopted several years ago, but never strictly enforced, applies to all baked goods delivered to homes or left at stores for resale.

At the last meeting of the health board action to have the regulation strictly enforced in the future was adopted and it was directed that a written communication calling attention to the regulation and that it would be rigidly enforced on and after March 1, be prepared and sent not only to the local bakers but to the out-of-town bakers who deliver and sell products in Kingston.

Sanitary Inspector Charles W. Shultis said today that the general public could assist materially in this drive to enforce the regulation by insisting that all baked stuffs they purchase were properly wrapped.

The sanitary inspector said that the decision to enforce the regulation was due to the fact that several complaints had been lodged with him that the regulation was not being observed by all of the bakers.

WHAT ABOUT OUR ISLANDS?

It is startling to have the American Civil Liberties Union say that conditions in most of the insular possessions of the United States are "deplorable." We know our country has island possessions, and we travel to some of them for pleasant vacations, but the average American knows little about their population and government.

According to the Civil Liberties people, this country has not kept its promise to prepare the colonies for independent, democratic self-government. The Union recommends a number of changes.

Puerto Rico, it says, should be allowed the free exercise of full civil rights, and inhabitants should be allowed to vote on "genuine independence or statehood."

In Guam, Samoa and Puerto Rico, school instruction should be given in the native languages, instead of English as at present.

Hawaii should have a chance to vote on changing its territorial status to statehood. The Philippines should be assured independence by 1946 and should be given the assistance of "progressive advisors." Native participation in government in the Virgin Islands should be extended. And so on.

Many Americans will hesitate about agreeing with all these suggestions. And they will have to turn to encyclopedias and public libraries to discover what it's all about. Since we have island possessions, it might be wise to learn more about them.

"DEMOCRACY" FILMS

An announcement from Hollywood indicates a new trend in American films. Walter Wanger, a leading producer, suggests that movie production should now get away from the "escapist" motif—that is, from mere entertainment intended to make people forget their troubles—and adopt a serious purpose. That purpose would be a realistic presentation of world conditions today, with emphasis on American democracy.

"What we who believe in our democracy would like to do," he says, "is to make films that would counteract totalitarian ideologies, and make ours more effective by using the truth that is on our side. I do not call this propaganda; I call it a necessary patriotic service."

"We don't want money out of Germany or Italy. In order to keep those markets we had to distort our productions to their taboos; and now that we have withdrawn from such markets, we have automatically freed ourselves from the narrowest censorship with which we had to deal."

"A new Hollywood" is appearing on the horizon, he says, a Hollywood more characteristically American.

No doubt the film industry could perform very useful service along the lines suggested. But straight propaganda might defeat its purpose. Democracy is an elusive bird, a spirit rather than a form, a manner of life and thought more than a doctrine. Patriotic dramas should be first of all good dramas. There is a wealth of material for them in this country, and the time is ripe.

YEARLY WAGE

An eastern chemical concern has recently inaugurated a plan which guarantees a definite annual wage to workers now paid by the hour in a seasonal business. The guaranteed wage is equivalent to 30 hours' minimum pay a week throughout the year. All employees who have been with the company three years are eligible to the benefits of the plan.

The system works as follows: When the weekly wage falls below thirty hours' pay at the current rate, because of lack of work, the company will advance the difference between actual earnings and what they would be for 30 hours' work. Earnings from outside sources and state unemployment compensation are taken into account in computing the amount to be advanced.

The advances, which bear no interest, are to be repaid only when the employee is working full time again. When his total earnings in any week are more than they would be for 30 hours, one half of the excess will be applied against the advances made until they are fully repaid.

It sounds like a reasonable and useful plan. It recognizes one of the great problems of wages in industry—the annual income. That is really more important in the long run than hourly wage scales for work of a seasonal or irregular nature.

ANCIENT "SWING"

Swing music, according to Douglas Kennedy, an English authority now in this country, is a form of "spontaneous expression with an appeal not to be found in new music."

That doesn't seem to make sense. But Mr. Kennedy means just what he says. "Swing or jazz," he explains, "is the oldest music. Swing rhythm started with the first barbaric beat of the native tom-tom and is definitely a brand of folk music. In one form or another it is here to stay."

So perhaps we should call the works of Beethoven, Brahms and Sibelius "new music."

Anyhow, aboriginal jazz or swing, or whatever it happens to be called at the moment, is here to stay, observes Mr. Kennedy. And its all right. "Call yourself a trumpet, clarinet or whatever—when you're singing or dancing to a folk song, you're giving off steam and treating your pent-up emotions to a holiday."

In fact, when you let yourself go in this way, you are virtually making yourself a musical instrument. It's a grand outlet, says the expert; or as highbrows say nowadays, a "release."

A modern critic says it isn't true that George Washington threw a dollar across the Potomac, or any other river, because George never threw away a dollar.

The American principle of free speech seems to apply even to a Nazi meeting, but do the swastika and the Stars and Stripes belong together?

The democratic ideal is free speech even for Nazis—but not free action. We want no religious persecution and concentration camps.

Mrs. Roosevelt says she is "appalled by people who think the United States is located somewhere on the moon." Yes, we're pretty loony.

"Shall America be Jew-ruled?" asked a banner at the big Nazi meeting in Madison Square Garden. No, nor Hitler-ruled, either.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.
 SOME FACTS ABOUT ACNE—PIMPLES

"Many a pimple studded face masks a beginning mental case that may become 'full blown.' Inferiority complexes have their beginning there. Help prevent them."

For a number of years I have been trying to follow the above advice—help the sufferer with acne (pimples) by giving readers all the latest information in the treatment of this distressing ailment.

Dr. L. P. Ercaux, Montreal, whom I have quoted above from Canadian Medical Association Journal, makes the plea that physicians give the treatment of acne more thought because acne can be cured and when it is prevented or cured, there is often also the curing or saving of a mind.

"The pesty, pimply, pitted individual at puberty (changing period from boy and girl to man and woman) has been observed from ancient times. As far back as the Greeks and Romans, acne vulgaris was known." The fact that it appears to occur at the age of puberty as a very common skin condition has made many physicians indifferent as to treatment. Besides, it is, or has been, rather a difficult skin condition to correct.

I have spoken before of the various methods of treatment—diet, gland extracts, viosterol, X-ray—all of which Dr. Ercaux believes have given satisfactory results in many cases and should therefore be tried. The use of the little instrument for pressing the hardened oil out of the pimple may cause more harm than help unless used carefully.

"Steam packs open pores, clean out the pimple, and promote the flow of oil. Their use followed by compresses of a salt solution—2 ounces of salt to a quart of water—dries the skin, closes the wide open pores, and improves texture of the skin."

In regard to food, the fat foods are usually cut down—cream, butter, goose, duck, cheese, chocolate, cocoa, nuts and fried foods.

A helpful suggestion is that combing the hair should be done before washing the face as the dandruff organisms can aggravate acne.

Practically all skin specialists advise the use of the X-ray as the "best all around agent for completing the treatment of acne. In correct dosage, the X-ray does not produce wrinkling, scarring, or wasting of the skin."

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

The first list of scholarships has reached Principal Clarence L. Dumm. The largest is the Douglas scholarship which offers $800. There are five $600 and three $500 scholarships. Awards are based on the basis of character, examinations, financial need and scholastic ability. March 1 is the final date by which applications may be made for the Douglas, National and Voorhees scholarships. Others must be made by June 1.

Bankham College of New York city offers the Catholic Action Essay Contest which covers the cost of tuition for a four year course in Arts, Science, Business or Engineering. The scholarship will be awarded to the Catholic boy who submits the best essay on the subject "How a Catholic Boy Can Advance the Cause of Catholic Action in his Community." The essay should not exceed 1,500 words, should be written in ink or by typewriter on one side of the paper and must be postmarked not later than April 1.

The Northern Branch of the Associated Alumnae of Vassar College offers a scholarship of $450 for the freshman year to a girl resident of northern New York who needs this amount of aid to enter college in September. Credentials must be submitted by March 15.

The College of New Rochelle Pros and Paint (Dramatic Club) Scholarship includes value of $1,200 ($300 for four years), open to the young women of 1939 in upper fifth of the class who have completed entrance requirements in full. For the art scholarship the value is $800 ($200 for four years) open to girls in the upper fourth of the class who wish to specialize in art and who have completed entrance requirements in full. Limited number of St. Angela Scholarships of $400 ($100 for four years) open to girls in upper third of class. Scholarships are awarded on the basis of scholastic average and personal qualities. Applications for scholarships must be made by April 1, 1939. Though the College is conducted under Catholic auspices, students of other denominations are, of course, welcomed.

Last week the Rifle Club received its charter from the National Rifle Association in Washington, D. C. The organization is under the leadership of Mr. Holmes. Its officers are: President, Peter Sarkies; vice president, Robert Jones; secretary, Richard Larson; and treasurer, Mr. Holmes.

Final plans have been completed for the formation of the Chapter of the National Honor Society of Secondary Schools. The purpose of this society will be to give recognition to the students of high scholastic standing who have shown qualities of leadership. At the present a secret faculty committee is in progress of making a list of senior students who will be eligible for membership.

With Edward Sylvester in charge, the faculty of the Myron J. Michael School met to formulate plans for the next assembly programs in the near future. The first of the series is to be a community sing fest. Later a variety show will be staged. Those who have already been assigned for parts are Elizabeth Norton, Marianne Davis, Dorothy Deyo, Dorothy DeGraff, William Baker, Jack Deegan, Bud Oulton, Kenneth Heppner and Lionel Gramer. The climax to the program will be a play, the cast of which will include faculty members.

Under the direction of Margaret Mullen, the new students have started plans for the organization of new clubs in the school on the hill. It is the English Club and they will conduct reports, resumes and criticisms of various books, movie pictures and conduct plays through the Dramatic Club. Mark Connelly was elected president. Another club is the Commercial, which has been made up of students from Bliss Williams' business class. Office holders are Dorothy Van Elicen, Gloria Wederman.

With the increase of pupils in the MJM School it has been necessary to enlarge the teaching staff and personnel. Harold Bunting is one of the new professors. He was a resident of Highland but received his training in K.I.S. He also attended New Paltz Normal School. The other addition is Warren Russell. He is a native of East Branch, Delaware county and he also attended Kingston High School. After rounding out his term at Hamilton College and New Paltz, he was a teacher for several years at School No. 2.

State diplomas for last June have arrived and may be secured at the principal's office, it was learned yesterday. Mr. Dumm has also announced that the pupils of Kingston High School will have a treat in store for them when the makers of Esso gasoline will sponsor a movie entitled "News of the Air." It will be shown in both assemblies, probably next week.

HUDSON RIVER STEAMBOATS

These articles are written from the collection of George W. Murdock, veteran marine engineer.

No. 81—Jacob H. Tremper

Built originally for a local concern, Romer & Tremper, with offices in Rondout, the steamboat "Jacob H. Tremper" was a familiar sight sailing in and out of the Rondout creek a few years ago. Today, the "Jacob H. Tremper" is seen no more as she was broken up in 1938, but memories of this graceful steamboat are not very dim in the minds of local residents, and the tone of her whistle still haunts the hillsides along the banks of the Rondout creek.

The wooden hull of the "Jacob H. Tremper" was built by Herbert Lawrence at Greenpoint, New York, in 1886, and her engine was constructed by W. A. Fletcher & Company of New York. She was 130 feet long, breadth of beam of 30 feet, two inches. Her tonnage rating was listed as gross 672 and net 432, and her vertical beam engine had a cylinder diameter of 44 inches with a 10 foot stroke.

The "Jacob H. Tremper" was built for the firm of Romer & Tremper of Rondout to be used as a freight and passenger vessel on a daytime run between Newburgh and Albany. She ran in line with the steamboat "M. Martin." In August of 1884 the steamboat "Eagle," which had been running on the Newburgh route since 1855 and for several years before 1884 in line with the "M. Martin," was destroyed by fire, and the "Jacob H. Tremper" was built to replace the "Eagle."

The new steamboat proved to be an exceptionally fine vessel for the purpose for which she was built. She had a large freight capacity and fine accommodations for passengers, and these advantages soon made themselves evident by the appearance of the books, movie pictures and conduct plays through the Dramatic Club. Mark Connelly was elected president. Another club is the Commercial, which has been made up of students from Bliss Williams' business class. Office holders are Dorothy Van Elicen, Gloria Wederman.

No. 81—Jacob H. Tremper

"Jacob H. Tremper" as one of the first vessels placed in service in the spring of the year and the last steamboat to be laid up in the fall.

In the winter of 1899 the Romer & Tremper fleet of river steamboats was purchased by the Central Hudson Steamboat Company of Newburgh. This transaction included the steamboats "Jacob H. Tremper," "M. Martin," "James W. Baldwin," and "William F. Romer."

Another distinction which places the "Jacob H. Tremper" apart from many of the other Hudson river steamboats was her exceptionally clear record. In fact, only one accident to the "Jacob H. Tremper" was deemed worthy of note in her history. This accident occurred on Monday morning, July 21, 1913. On this morning, the "Jacob H. Tremper" left Newburgh at her usual time for Albany. On her way up the river she struck an uncharted rock off Esopus Island. The captain immediately ordered her course set for the mud flats off Staatsburgh on the east side of the river, and at this place she sunk rapidly.

Following this experience, the "Jacob H. Tremper" was raised and repaired and again placed in service, and in 1916 she was plying her regular route under the command of Captain John Dearstyne.

"The Jacob H. Tremper" was also one of the last of the side-wheel steamboats of her class to continue in service on a freight and passenger vessel. In the fall of 1928 the "Jacob H. Tremper" was deemed unfit for further service and was laid up at Newburgh, and in July of the following year she was sold to a junk dealer and broken up at Newburgh.

YOUR FEDERAL INCOME TAX

Deduction for Traveling Expenses No. 27

To obtain a deduction for traveling expenses, which form an important item in the returns of many taxpayers, certain regulations must be observed. The taxpayer is required to attach to his return a statement showing the nature of business in which engaged, number of days away from home during the taxable year on account of business, total amount of expense incidental to meals and lodging, and total amount of "other expenses" incident to travel and claimed as a deduction. Among the "other expenses" are tips, provided they are reasonable in amount.

Traveling expenses are deductible only when the trip is on business. They are limited to such expenses as are reasonable and necessary in the conduct of the business and directly attributable to it.

Traveling expenses incurred in connection with a journey to another city to accept or seek employment are not deductible. Suburbanites who commute daily from their home to their places of business are not permitted to deduct the cost of transportation, it being a personal expense.

Claims for deduction for traveling expenses must be substantiated, when required by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, showing in detail the amount and nature of the expenses incurred.

Right to Strike Has Not Been Limited, But Right to Do Unlawful Acts Denounced

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1939)

Washington, Feb. 28.—The supreme law of the land today is that any worker who engages in a sit-down strike or does anything else illegal can be discharged by his employer and need not be rehired.

Thus does the supreme court of the United States, just two years after the first sit-down strikes in the automobile industry, announce to labor and capital the final judgment as to the hazards of violence when used in connection with a labor dispute.

One might say that this is a simple pronouncement and merely common sense and should, therefore, not come as a surprise. True enough, it is not unexpected. This correspondent and others pointed out from the very first day the National Labor Relations Board ordered the reinstatement of sit-down strikers, once employed by the Fansteel Company of Illinois, that the grounds cited by the board were tenuous and probably would not be upheld by the supreme court. Yet the board, confronted with a legal tangle, felt itself duty-bound to fight the issues through to the highest court so that the question might for all times be resolved.

The atmosphere, for instance, in which the sit-down strike occurred, was not all one-sided. In this particular case, the employing company had endeavored to interfere with self-organization of employees and had in fact employed a labor spy. The supreme court found this to be a fact. Workers grow bitter and angry beyond description when someone is hired to spy on their meetings secretly and to report who participates. That a provocation to a sit-down strike may have been present is not denied by the supreme court's opinion, but its essence is that two wrongs do not make a right and that it does not promote the peaceful settlement of disputes to condone illegality or violence in any form.

The Supreme Court points out also that the workers have their chance to prosecute the employer company before the labor board for interfering with union activities and for labor spying, but did not avail themselves of the opportunity till the controversy over the sit-down strike occurred.

The Fansteel case will be a historic precedent. It ends all doubt as to the legality of a sit-down strike. For, not only was the Wagner labor relations act held not to safeguard the sit-down strikers, but the Supreme Court of the United States, on the same day, refused to interfere with the action of the courts of the state of Illinois which had convicted several sit-down strikers for acts of violence and had ordered them to serve jail sentences and pay fines.

The theory that an illegal act cannot be protected under the right to strike is not new in American jurisprudence. What is new is that a "sit-down" has been added to the long list of illegal things which workers cannot do under the guise of a strike.

An important definition, however, by the Supreme Court with reference to the status of an employee was developed in the Fansteel case, and it relates to the question of whether an employer can dismiss an employee who is on strike for any reason not connected with the labor dispute. The court holds that the right of discharge is absolute and that an employer can discharge his employees at any time and for any reason except one—the quitting of work as a direct consequence of a labor dispute in which the withdrawal from work is lawfully consummated and the grievances are lawfully presented.

What the Supreme Court said in the opinion rendered by Chief Justice Hughes and in the separate opinion rendered by Justice Stone, concurring with him, was that the right of discharge has not been limited by the Wagner act when the reasons for discharge are dissociated from the quitting of work in a lawfully conducted strike.

There were other cases decided by the Supreme Court on Monday relating to rulings of the National Labor Relations Board, cases wherein the highest court examined the evidence and findings and came to a different conclusion than that of the board. This is answered the criticism that the Wagner labor act decisions in the famous Jones and Laughlin case stagnated the employer-employee relationship and gave workers a continued status as employees subject to reinstatement with pay, irrespective of what may have been the reasons for their quitting of work.

On matters stand today, employers will be cautious to engage in "sit-down" strikes or to do anything else illegal while engaged in a strike otherwise started and conducted lawfully. If legal picketing or other acts of violence now will become a basis for the refusal of employers to reinstate such workers.

The right to strike has not been limited, but the right to do unlawful acts during a strike has been denounced once more by the Supreme Court of the United States in accordance with the basic principles of American jurisprudence.

Alimony Is Set In Local Court

Justice Francis Bergan has granted a motion for temporary alimony and counsel fees in an action for separation brought by Kathryn Harford against Edwin A. Harford. Flanagan & Kaercher appeared for plaintiff and Roger H. Loughran for defendant. The alimony will terminate if the case is not tried by the end of the March trial term of supreme court unless the case be put over the term on the request of the defendant while the plaintiff is ready to proceed. The court grants $90 a month alimony from January 1, 1939, and also directs that $125 counsel fees be paid within 30 days. The motion for alimony was opposed.

West Park Church Gets New Organ

A handsome Hammond electric organ has just been installed in the gallery of the historic Church of the Ascension in West Park. The instrument was delivered and set in place last Thursday, and it was used for the first time on Sunday, February 26.

For a long time the need for a new organ has been felt; but definite action toward getting a good one did not take place until 1937 when the parish was celebrating its 95th anniversary. Since then contributions have been received from all over the country, as well as from people of all religious beliefs. Most of these were tourists who, driving past, stopped in to see the interior of the old church.

The new instrument is practically the same as the Hammond which was used in the Municipal Auditorium during the Apple Blossom Festival last May, and about which a great deal of favorable comment was made.

The organist of Ascension Church is Mrs. W. Herman Jordan of Highland.

Dairymen of Ulster County Attend Hearing at Syracuse

A representative group of Ulster county dairymen, headed by Albert Kurdt, Farm Bureau manager, attended the mass meeting of New York state dairymen, held at the Lincoln High School Auditorium, Syracuse, Monday, to consider the situation created by the invalidation of the Federal-State Marketing Order of the courts. The outcome of the meeting was a resolution to give dealers until midnight Saturday to voluntarily renew the contracts which have been in force under the order now declared void, otherwise to have milk withheld.

In order that dairymen generally may be fully informed as to the situation and may be given an opportunity to endorse the action taken at Syracuse, a series of nine regional meetings will be held on Wednesday in various parts of the state. The meetings are called for 11 o'clock in the morning and the meeting for Ulster county will be held at Goshen, Orange county. The Syracuse meeting was called by the Metropolitan Milk Bargaining Agency, which embraces some 75 milk co-operatives in the state and milkshed, which includes certain districts in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Vermont. This agency handles about 90 per cent of the fluid milk which goes into the metropolitan district.

Manager Kurdt said that there are still a few co-operatives which have not affiliated with the agency and that among those who have been on the outside are a few Ulster county producers, including the Erie-Katie group. It is hoped to secure full co-operation in the present move. The situation, it is said, looks favorable and already the Buffalo dealers have voluntarily renewed their contracts. ## Ford Taken Ill At County Jail

Charles Ford of Phenicia, who has been held in the Ulster county jail since October 22 on a charge of murder, was removed to the Kingston Hospital for treatment. It is reported that he suffered a slight stroke.

Ford is awaiting trial on a charge of murder, second degree, for the alleged shooting of Harvey Clancy at Phenicia last October. The shooting took place on the main street of the village in front of Clancy's Grill over a real estate transaction. Justice Bergan recently denied an application to inspect the grand jury minutes which returned the second degree murder charge.

Many Civil Cases Listed On March Court Calendar

New Antarctic Expedition

Sydney, Australia, Feb. 28 (AP)—Lincoln Ellsworth, American explorer, today outlined plans for a new Antarctic expedition, starting in January, 1941, to establish a camp at the South Pole and live there all winter with two companions. Ellsworth, who returned last month from a three-month Antarctic expedition, said his projected expedition would start from the Bay of Whales in two planes and fly to the pole. Ellsworth proposed the name of "The American Highland" for 81,000 square miles of territory south of Princess Elizabeth Land which he claimed for the United States on his recent expedition.

Ballinger declared, "the result will inevitably be to cover all business into a monopoly system. This road leads directly to some form of authoritarian government. The abandonment of free capitalism here, as in other nations, will require the abandonment of democracy. Therefore, that this committee will do well to oppose any attempt that may be made to obtain its sanction for laws looking to the organization of free industry for price and production control."

Ballinger took the witness stand for a preliminary statement when the committee began a review of the trade commission's experience in enforcing laws against monopoly and unfair trade practices.

CHIVALRY RIDES AGAIN

The romantic tale of how two college freshmen, rivals in love, fenced with foils recently until one was "pinned" and honor was satisfied was told by the student publicity director at Blue Ridge College, New Windsor, Md. Here the "duellists" reenact the scene. Publicity Director George M. Rignin said James Deaton (left) of New York city, was scratched on the stomach by the foil of George List, Jr. (right). President L. H. Harris of the college said, however, it was "no duel—it was a fencing match" and that the foils were equipped with button guards.

DANGEROUS SERVICE

By GRACE ELLIOTT TAYLOR

The Characters
Peter Mallone: Adventurous journalist.
Petronella: His loyal sister.
James: Peter's fiancé.

Yesterday: James and Tamara discover they are in love. Meanwhile Peter is worried about a report of journalists shot down in Spain.

Chapter 36

An Old Acquaintance

"THEY don't know who the journalists are," Petronella told James and Tamara. Martin hasn't heard from Peter for three days. He thinks Tony Lance somehow persuaded a pilot, a non-commissioned officer of the Government forces, who wanted to desert, to fly them across the front, so that they could join the advance of the rebels towards Madrid."

James spoke sharply. "You never told me Lance was in Madrid." He could not understand the look in Peter's eyes as she answered. "He is," she stated. "They may have got through. They may have been shot down. Communications are all cut. Tony was waiting for information for Franco. He may have received it, and Peter, who was longing to get out of Madrid, would certainly have tried to persuade him to take him along with him. It wouldn't have occurred to Tony to refuse." Her smile was bitter.

"Poor Petrel—they are devils to make you suffer like this," Tamara wailed pitifully. "Waiting, waiting for news."

Petrel put an arm round Tamara's shoulders for a moment, then withdrew it again. She looked at James. "That is what I came to tell you both I'm sorry, but I can't stand it here any longer. I feel I must get away. Suspense—and inaction—they're terrible companions, James. You see, Martin may hear news any time, or one of the other papers may receive a message. I've got to be in town, telephoning often, till I know between whistles, I can do a great deal—meet friends—keep busy. You understand? You don't mind?"

James and Tamara looked at one another. Tamara smiled.

Even if this had not happened, she could not have stayed, Petronella told herself, as she packed her case. Ballfield was too quiet. This was the excuse she kept giving herself, for her flight to town. But it was not the whole reason. She was not really afraid to wait, and pray, for Tony and Peter. She knew this. She could have borne to stand by, and watch Tamara and James. Even though it hurt her pride, to know herself unloved. But she was obeying a stronger impulse, a sense of urgency, and danger. That urge, perhaps, which Aunt Maizie had called "guidance," and which she called instinct, or hunch, told her that unless she caught the next fast train to Victoria, something vitally important in her life would have been neglected.

It was impossible to expect James to understand such superstition. It was unreasonable. He believed that she was behaving like this on account of Tony, and her brother. But he was not entirely right. Suppose something had happened to Tony? Before this possibility every other consideration went down. Blame mattered as little as merit.

James drove her to the station. There was pity in his eyes. She was glad she felt so resentful. But she was grateful to him for his silence. It was an opportunity for him to tell her about Tamara, but he did not take it. Today was Saturday.

Obedient Impulse

"WILL you lunch with me on Monday, usual place?" He was arranging to talk it over, thought Petronella. She wondered what he would say. Had he discussed the situation with Tamara? Or would he break the path by protesting that they had been strangers lately; that he resented her preoccupation, and her anxiety for Tony? But Peter felt sure this possibility was only self-delusion. He would tell her that he and Tamara loved one another. She agreed to meet him. James stood outside her carriage till the train started moving. They did not speak, till she said:

"Thank you for driving me Goodby."

She sat watching the country fly past the window. She wondered what James would have said if he had known that her passport was in her bag. Yet she had no intention of going abroad. Again, she had obeyed impulse. Was she a little mad? It was there, just in case she suddenly decided to lose the battle of mind to heart. But she was more than ever determined not to lose it if Peter were killed. It would be Tony's fault for allowing him to do such a crazy thing, as change sides in the middle of a revolution. In like ways, he would always lead his companions into danger. It might be impossible to subdue her love, but she was determined to control her actions.

When she reached Victoria, Petronella went to the telephone boxes, and stood, waiting to call first the News office, then the hotel.

where she must book a room. What long conversations these people were having. The young man in the end box was obviously telephoning his girl. He would be ages. This caller? Surely there was something familiar about that broad back, and that eager, concise voice? She moved a step to one side. She saw the intelligent face of a woman whose brows were heavy, and whose eyes were bright. Her mind leaped back years. To a marble topped table on a grilling summer afternoon, to a black dispatch case, an inspiring story. She thought:

"Clare Horton! I wonder if she'll remember me!"

A moment later the woman started out of her box. She smiled an impersonal apology at Petronella, for having kept her waiting. She recognized her an instant later.

"Don't tell me! I know! Petronella Mallone—we met years ago. Do you remember?"

"Yes, and I've always wanted to meet you again, Miss Horton. But you were always in China. Or else I was abroad, myself."

"Well, now we're both in Victoria Station!" she cried, laughing. "Thank you for the money you sent. I meant to write personally, again."

"Your interview was a success, wasn't it?" asked Petrel.

"I'd Love To Talk To You"

"EVENTUALLY," Clare nodded. "And your brother? Where is Peter Mallone just now?"

"In Spain, and missing. I'm terribly anxious. That is why I'm going to telephone for news. It is the first time anything like this has happened since I stopped traveling with him. I'm staying in town, till I know."

"I'm sorry, Petronella," her voice had become gentle. With Clare Horton looking at her face, Petrel knew it was useless to pretend she was anything but miserable. "If you could wait a moment, I'd love to talk to you," she suggested. Clare agreed. "We'll have some tea together."

"Oh, yes. I feel I don't talk to someone—" she did not end her sentence.

"Then we didn't meet by chance, after all these years."

Even while she telephoned Martin Rowdon, and heard that there was no more news, Petronella felt Clare's calm, strong influence. Perhaps, if she could talk to Clare, life would not seem so dead wrong. There might be some solution. If she had the chance, she determined to tell her about Tony. Clare would understand, and reassure her. She would agree that she had done the only thing she could, in leaving Cairo. She would tell her to do all she could to forget Tony, if not with James, with some one else, or with work. Because he could never give her security or happiness.

Martin Rowdon told not to worry so much. The communications were so bad, Peter might be as safe as she was.

"Where can I get you? I'm just trying a new line now. I may know something more, within the next half-hour. I'll call you back."

"I'm having tea at Victoria Station. I'll phone you."

She could tell, from the hesitancy in his voice, that he was about to mention Tony. He was curious to know whether she still cared for him.

"If only I could find out that Lance was still in Madrid, I should feel sure Peter was all right, and that that report alluded to two strangers."

"I know," said Petronella. Saying goodbye, she rang off quickly. No news yet. But here's hope, she told Clare Horton.

They entered the tea-room and found a table. Clare smiled, as she seated herself opposite Petronella. "I'm no longer working for the White Russian Aid. That is established. I can get on without me. But there is new work, crying out to be done. I'm fighting my doctor, to let me go to Spain." As she offered her a cigarette, Clare watched her reaction keenly.

"Spain!"

"My doctor tells me I'm unfit for travel, discomfort, bad food, and excitement. I've a sneaking suspicion he's right. But it seems to me absolutely necessary that something should be done for Spanish children, orphans, and refugees. I was going out to find a suitable place for a temporary home for them. I suppose, you wouldn't like to do it for me? If your news, when it comes, is good?" she asked.

Petronella started. "I—I don't think I could, Clare."

"You told me, once, you'd like to help my kind of work. You said you were no use at anything particular. Time has altered that."

Petronella flushed. "It is the finest work in the world, Clare. Ever since I met you, I've often thought of you, like a long suffering nurse, doing your best for unhappy nations, as if they were misguided children."

"If you would, you have all the necessary knowledge, and perhaps some practical experience. You speak Spanish. Your brother, and a friend, whom I believe you met in Madrid, would help you." Clare was watching her face.

Petronella sat staring at her dumbly. Was this why she had met Clare Horton? Was this why she had caught that train, stood outside that telephone box?

ANALYSIS

The greatest asset of any nation is the spirit of its people—the will to win and the courage to work. By that same token the greatest danger that menaces a nation is the breakdown of that spirit, turning human beings into something resembling sheep.

Junior—Dad, what is a burlesque?

Daddy—A burlesque son, is a take off.

Junior—Take off what?

Mother (interrupting)—Junior, leave the room immediately.

Most persons these days are like the three-year-old boy at the prayer meeting Wednesday night.

"The Lord's Prayer was being said in concert by the congregation and when a pause came at the end of the sentence, 'Give us this day our daily bread' the little fellow piped up with, 'And, God be sure it a sliced'."

Alfred (calling up to his friend)—Have you seen the morning paper with the account of the accident and my death?

Jeffrey—Yes, I was sorry to read about that. But where are calling, from now?

Chatterbox nowadays are no worse than those of the past. Perhaps you can remember when undecided about whether to use an "e" or "i" in spelling a word you would use an "e" and put a dot over it.

Mrs. Dolphin—It says here in the paper that a couple just got married after a courtship of 30 years.

Mr. Dolphin—Well I suppose the poor fellow couldn't hold out any longer.

READ IT OR NOT?

There are 182,652 federal state and local taxing jurisdictions in the United States.

Visitor—What nice buttons you are sewing on your little boy's suit. My husband once had some like that on his suit.

Factor's Wife—Yes, I get all my buttons from the collection plate.

Travelers judge a town by its looks. They do not have time to stop and analyze the community character and reach a carefully weighed conclusion as to the kind of town that it is. And that emphasizes the importance of a town looking its best at all times.

He had been bragging to a girl friend about his powers as a runner. Suddenly a gust of wind whisked off her hat and carried it down the street, yet he made no attempt to retrieve it.

Girl (indignantly)—You are such a wonderful runner, yet you can't get my hat!

Young Man—Just a minute! I must give it a hundred yards at it.

Uncle Peter observes that Noah successfully floated the first company while the rest of the world was in liquidation.

Small (stopping engagement ring on her finger)—Mollie dear, have you told your parents?

Mollie—Oh, you poor innocent! Why they knew it six months before you did.

Holmes—I read in a book that Apollo was chasing a nymph and she turned into a tree.

Getalid—He was lucky. Those three always turn into a night club or restaurant.

Fashion Note (from N.Y. News)—Wayne Morris in Jack White's 38 Club wearing brown and white striped tuxedo suit light gray shirt and maroon and gray striped shirt.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—The last baseball game ever photographed is in Dairen, Manchoukuo, and belongs to Dr. Roy H. Akagi's 15-year-old son, a slender, baseball-crazy kid who pitches for the Dairen high school team.

It may appear strange that so valuable a souvenir should wander so far afield, yet when you remember that Doctor Akagi himself is a rabid fan, that his father-in-law introduced baseball to the Japanese people, and that his son is a top flight hurler for a typical, intensely enthusiastic Japanese team, the idea doesn't seem so incongruous after all.

A reporter from this office helped gather the signatures for this spheroid. He went over to Brooklyn and got Babe Ruth to sign it. Then he went up to the stadium, where Manager McCarthy, Gehrig, DiMaggio, Gomez and all the Yanks wrote their names on it. And after that he took it to the bedside of the Colonel, then in the early stages of what was to prove his final illness.

IT WAS the last baseball he ever photographed. Then George Sutton of the Sutton News Agency and a friend of Doctor Akagi forwarded it to the doctor for his son. The prize arrived just after the Yanks had whipped the Cubs for their third straight championship, and in Dairen the excitement was so intense that, by special request the ball was placed in a downtown window, where thousands trooped by to do it reverence.

Doctor Akagi is a noted lecturer, an executive of the South Manchoukuo railway, and an authority on world affairs. His son is American born and educated.

DESPITE the pretentious dignity that a tuxedo and Broadway stars, the people of the theater seldom can resist gagging.

Rarely in the history of the footlights has a star been attended with such reverence as that accorded Sarah Bernhardt when the noted French actress came to this country for long tours that oftentimes included performances given under tents. Today she is still spoken of by young actresses and playwrights in awestruck tones.

But that reverence was forgotten for a little while the other night when Jack Kirkland's play of the Florodora girls, "I Must Love Someone," opened.

One of the Florodora girls was boasting effusively about her conquests among the many courtiers who were pursuing her.

"Sit down, Sarah," one of the other Florodoras squelched her, "before you start another tour—of your lovers."

"What a lamb! What a lamb!" cawed Christopher.

"Well I could do a bit of cleaning myself," agreed Willy Nilly.

"I had thought of helping you, should you want me," bleated Sweet Face. "In fact I'd be delighted to help you. Of course if you would only find me in the way I could go and see what the meadow looks like underneath the melting snow."

"What a lamb! What a lamb!" cawed Christopher.

"I'll really work more quickly by myself," said Willy Nilly. So he suggested that he should attend to his chores and that Mrs. Quack should attend to hers, and that the others should go wandering and do whatever they wished. They all went off in different directions.

WONDER CHILD IS TALENTED PIANIST AND GOOD DANCER

Three-Year-Old Is Further Along Now Than Many Adults Ever Got.

SALT LAKE CITY.—Beverly Bercu of this city has an intelligence quotient that rates her as a baby genius. She is a gracious, charming little girl, with big, dark eyes, curly hair, and a cute juvenile nose.

Stepping into the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George D. Bercu, we find the recently discovered child genius at the piano.

We ask if she would mind playing for us a bit.

"Certainly not," says Beverly, who is obliging as well as lovely. And she plays a very pretty piece, and plays it well.

We request a dance, and Beverly kindly does a ballet. She also sings in a sweet voice.

And she's smart as well as talented. For in a recent intelligence test, she scored a mark which stamps her really as an intellectual phenomenon.

Well, you ask, what of it? Aren't lots of girls smart, pretty and fairly good dancers, singers and pianists? Sure. But not many are so accomplished at the age of three.

That's all little Beverly is; just three years old.

Classed as Genius.

She's classed as a genius. The intelligence test she took was one previously given to two of her sisters in their psychology class at the University of Utah, where they are students.

Beverly scored an intelligence quotient of 185. A normal score is 100; a mark of 150 is rare, and a rating of 185, according to professors at the university, betokens a phenomenon.

Beverly is the youngest in a family which includes two brothers and two sisters, all students at the university.

Her artistic talents lean toward music and dancing. Already skilled at the piano, she is studying the ballet in a class of children twice and three times her age.

"We don't want to advance her too rapidly," says her mother. "And we are trying to develop her physically as well as mentally. That is largely the reason for the ballet lessons and some gymnastic training she is getting."

"She has a fine musical ear and a good sense of rhythm—exactly the kind she will have a remarkable singing voice."

Reads Newspapers.

Beverly is vitally interested in current events, and reads the newspapers closely in the mornings. "Beverly," says her mother, "picks up the most remarkable things. She learned to talk before she could walk, and now she carries on long conversations with anybody in the family who will listen, though she is somewhat shy with strangers."

The little child likes bath salts and perfumes and is in a hurry to grow up so she can use makeup, like her sisters.

Goodness knows where she'll grow to. She's further along now than many adults ever get.

Scout Training Help to Boy With Severed Artery

POCATELLO, IDAHO.—Elwin Arnell, former St. Charles Boy Scout, told in a report to local scout headquarters how his training in first aid had saved his life.

Arnell, who now lives in Logan, Utah, related to scout officials that while he was working on a farm a team of horses he was driving became startled and ran away.

The broken end of a hay rake tongue pierced the main artery in his leg. Arnell recalled that two men working with him knew nothing of treatment for such wounds.

He directed one to go for a doctor and directed the other to exert pressure just above the wound with his hands to stop the spurting of the blood.

In his report Arnell said: "The puncture was so high it was impossible to use a tourniquet, so Mr. Herschli, who was with me, looped his hands above my leg and stopped the blood from spurting until the doctor arrived."

The doctor praised Arnell for his coolness in directing the first aid procedure and said had the puncture been a fraction of an inch to one side it would have been impossible to stop the bleeding.

U. S. Will Start Work On Irrigation Project

WASHINGTON.—Agriculture department officials said the government's program to develop water facilities will be put to work immediately on a project designed to improve 64,000 acres of orchard and grazing land in southeastern Placer county, California.

A "tentative allotment" of $20,000 was set aside to begin work on grade ditches, pipelines and other measures calculated to make more efficient use of land and water in the area.

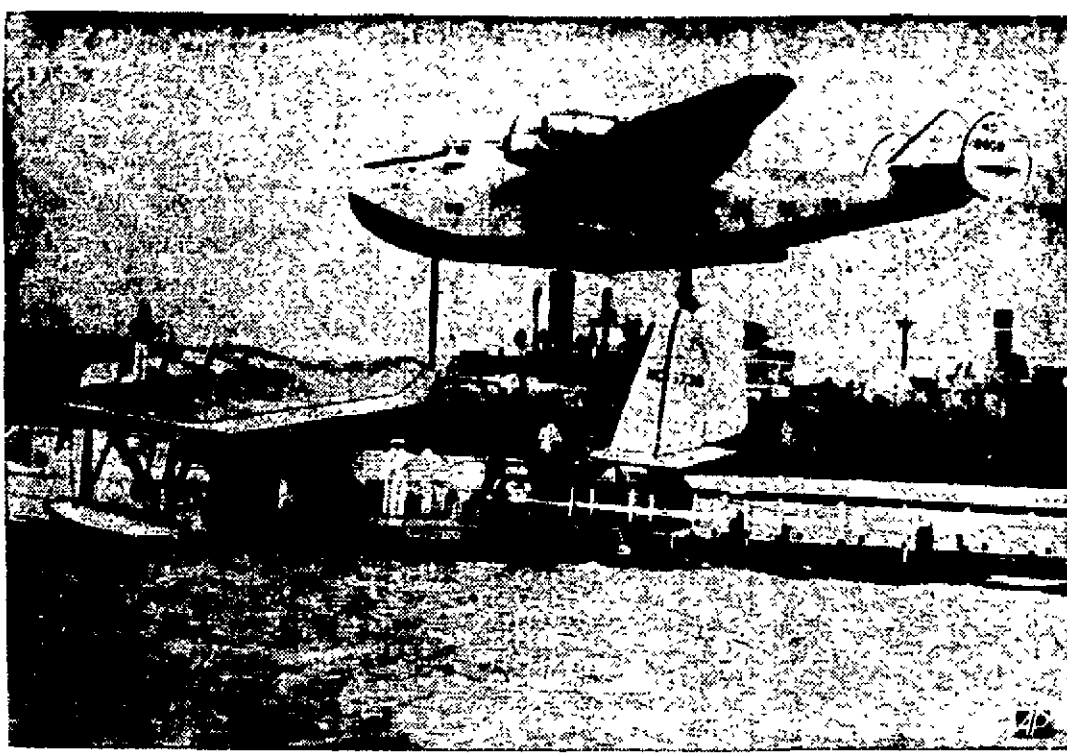

None of the money will be offered in the form of outright grants, but funds will be available for low-interest loans to individual farmers. These residents of the area will eventually pay for the improvements themselves, under the government financing plan.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Hollywood has a way...

There was Henry Fonda, some years back. If ever a young fellow wanted neither part nor parcel of the movies, it was Hank.

Why should he have? His days of starvation were over. He'd gone through that phase of his acting career on Broadway. He had lived through lean periods by eating rice—a nickel's worth of beans up so filling when boiled. At last he had a contract, an informal agreement with a New York producer giving him $100 a week.

That was when Lelana Hayward, the agent, came to Hollywood. Hayward looked around and decided that Hank Fonda ought to come too. He wrote an telegraphed, but Hank said no. He said finally to come out all expenses paid, and look around. So Fonda came.

"I'll stop 'em cold," said Hank. "I'll ask 'em for 350 smackers a week. That'll stay 'em."

So Hayward, Fonda, and Walter Wanger got together in Wanger's offices here, and Hayward and Fonda and Wanger talked for hours—and still Hank wasn't interested. At last he was ready to drop his bombshell, his salary demand. He got up to go. "I wouldn't come unless I—" he began.

"We'd start you at a thousand a week," said Wanger.

At that point Mr. Henry Fonda, late of Broadway, went into something like a coma.

There were no pictures for him right away, so he went to Hollywood. He went to the Farmer Takes a Wife. When Fox bought the play, they borrowed Fonda for it too—and that was when Hank learned about Hollywood.

He found her in his script—a character who said nothing, apparently, but was nearly always around, and with him. The script said so. "Dolly with him."

"Who," he asked Director Henry King one day, "is this Dolly? She has an important part, and yet she says nothing and I don't remember any character like that in the stage play." ("Dolly" is the truck the camera rides on for a moving, or "dolly" shot.)

HE is wiser now in the ways of Hollywood, even though he is not much of a part of it. Goes home from working hours. Lives apart from usual stream of movie night life. Fonda is a non-pro-socialite. His earlier marriage—to Margaret Sullivan—ended in divorce before he came here. (She's now Mrs. Leland Hayward.)

His role of Frank James in "Jesse James" has ignited a career that had been "hot" for some time—especially after his "Gill"—but had never caught fire. Now he is called "The Man with the Gun," Alexander Graham Bell's assistant, in the film of Bell's life.

Flash of Life
Sketches in Brief

By The Associated Press
Hollywood

New York—A lady has a perfect right to use a police radio car for a refuge.

So ruled Magistrate Casper J. Lofa in dismissing disorderly conduct charges brought by a patrolman who said the woman refused to leave when he found her in his parked patrol car at 1 a. m.

The woman said she had sought shelter in the car after a quarrel with her husband and wouldn't leave because she had no place to go, immediately.

Back Again
Portland, Ore.—Patrolman James Hunt is getting sick of the same old accident, the same old injury, the same old hospital bed.

He fell down and broke his leg in the same place the same time. They took him to the same hospital and a nurse tucked him in the same bed.

Hobbyists Exhibit Variety of Works

Many interesting and unique hobbies were exhibited Friday evening at the Hobby Show sponsored by the Hustlers' Class of the Rondout Presbyterian Sunday School and a large number of local hobbyists were represented.

Perhaps the most outstanding, and comprehensive exhibit was that of Arthur H. Russell, who has a large and interesting collection of Indian relics and some of which he has found in and around Kingston. The collection of Mr. Russell's contains some rare pieces.

Mr. C. A. Raschke, who is interested in a number of hobbies, the foremost of which is his collection of stamps, loaned for the show four of his mosaics or designs consisting of the American flag, Senate House, the great seal of the United States and a design of flag and eagle which he has made out of cancelled postage stamps. Mr. Raschke also gave a short address on hobbies.

Ribbons were awarded by the judges to the following: Miss Grace Terwilliger for her exhibit of braided rugs; Mrs. George D. Logan, teacher of the Builders' Class, for her fine collection of Bibles, one of which was over 100 years old; Mr. Ralph Nesbitt for her beautiful crocheted bedspread; large exhibit of sea shells by Mrs. Irving Scott; photographs by Edward Lowe; match covers by Robert Spinkins; stamp exhibits by James McClenahan, Martin Glass and Byron Stevens.

During the evening musical numbers were given by the Vagabonds, a five-piece orchestra composed of William Rutledge, Joseph Lucas, Charles Webster, James Sweeney and Raymond Mayone, which helped considerably in making the evening a success.

Fred VanDeusen, local magician, whose hobby is magic and who is teacher of the Hustlers' Class gave an exhibition of magic, after which ice cream was served. Many have expressed the hope that another hobby show will be held in the near future.

Regrets
Oklahoma City—Letters of sympathy, not $5 bouquets, will be sent to all members of the Oklahoma House of Representatives.

A motion to limit flower expense to $5 a member was amended to limit it to $3. Then Rep. Bascom Cohen moved the flower idea be dropped in favor of letters.

Rep. Malcolm Bascom was ruled out of order when he suggested penny postcards.

His Business Gain
Toledo (AP)—This city closed 1938 with business at 87.8 per cent of the 1930 level for a net gain of 3.1 points during the year.

According to the monthly survey of the bureau of business research of University of Toledo.

To Check Constipation Get at Its Cause!

If constipation has you down so you feel heavy, tired and dopey, it's time you did something about it. And something more than just taking a physic! You should get at the cause of the trouble.

If you eat the super-refined food most people eat, the chances are the difficulty is simple—you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean heavy food. It's a kind of food that isn't digested in the bowels, but leaves a soft, bulky "mass" in the intestines.

If this common form of constipation is your trouble, eat Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day and drink plenty of water. All-Bran isn't a medicine—it's a crunchy, toasted, nutritious cereal. And it will help you not only to get regular but to keep regular day after day. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

Leon H. Clark Takes Bride In Albany

Miss Irma May Laning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Laning, of Albany, was married to Leon Herbert Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon H. Clark of South Manor avenue, Kingston, Saturday at the home of the bride's parents on Schenectady Road.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a conventional blue organza gown, princess style, over blue satin, a silver lame turban with shoulder veil and carried calla lilies. Miss Ida Laning, her cousin, was bridesmaid, wearing peach net over peach satin trimmed with turquoise with matching turban. She carried peach gladioli. Donald Clark was his brother's best man.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Alan J. Perrine, pastor of the Roseville Presbyterian Church, before an altar of palms, gladioli, snapdragons and laurel. The wedding music was played by Miss Ruth Don of Albany. The bride's traveling costume was a gown of chartruese with luggage tan and black accessories.

Mrs. Clark attended Russell Sage and Iowa State Colleges and is a member of Chi Omega. Mr. Clark is a graduate of Rochester Polytechnic Institute, and a member of Phi Kappa Tau, and the American Society of Engineers. He is with the firm of Solomon and Kels of Troy. Following a southern wedding trip the couple will reside in Cobleskill.

A reception for the families and friends at the Laning home followed the ceremony. Out of town guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Leon Clark, of this city; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Pareis, Mrs. George Pareis, Mrs. Homer Becker and Richard Becker, of Milton; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Clark, of Tilton; and Mrs. Charles Hasbrouck of Stone Ridge.

Double Birthday Celebration

Bible Continued at 20th Century

Twentieth Century Club continued its study of "The Bible as Literature" at the meeting held Monday at the home of Miss Sarah W. Hasbrouck on St. James street. Roll call was answered to by a discussion of the states of Wisconsin and New Mexico, given respectively by Mrs. Maynard Mize and Mrs. Elmer Smith. The two papers for the afternoon were read by Mrs. T. H. Edmonston and Mrs. George E. Kenny. Mrs. Edmonston's paper was on "The Influence of the Bible on the English Language" and she spoke particularly of how the great writers had used phrases and illustrations of the Bible in their writings. She also mentioned the negro spirituals and the church hymns which quote directly from the Bible. The second paper, read by Mrs. Kenny, dealt with "The Influence of the Bible on English and American Literature" and proved by illustration the great number of words that are used today that have come directly from the Bible. The next meeting of the club will be held March 13 at the home of Mrs. William J. Cranston and not at the home of Mrs. E. O. Allen, as listed in the printed programs.

Observed 81st Birthday

British Island Is Found

Overrun by Fierce Cats

PORT LOUIS, MAURITIUS.—Tens of thousands of cats have been found to be living on Frigate, a low coral island 300 miles northeast of Mauritius, a British island in the Indian ocean.

The cats are descendants of a pair which survived a shipwreck about 80 years ago. They are large and fierce, and live in burrows, emerging only at night in search of food, mainly fish.

Guano seekers found that the cats caught fish in organized fashion.

"They form a circle on the dry reef reaching to the water's edge," said a surveyor who has returned from the island. "Then, just before low water, they close in, driving before them all the fish that have remained behind in the many small pools and little channels. A drive may yield a ton or more of fish."

Sometimes a tidal wave may wash a few hundreds, or thousands, of cats away, although many manage to regain shore. When bad weather keeps fish away, the cats fall on each other.

Sword 'Gargling' Stops

Throat Ills, Actor Says

HONIE, KAN.—John G. (Lucky) Ball, who turned from lion taming to sword swallowing for a "soft" job, believes there's no better way of avoiding throat ailments than "to gargle a sword now and then."

To prove his assertion, Ball cites the fact that not once since he started swallowing swords five years ago has he been bothered with a sore throat. His wife, one of the few women sword swallows in the country, likewise has not suffered from throat trouble, although she has unusually large tonsils.

Ball quit taming lions and started swallowing swords after a lion severely injured him. There is no danger of being injured by swallowing a sword, Ball said, unless there are jagged edges on the weapon. For a chaser, Ball eats fire.

Ball has appeared in several motion pictures and now is under contract. He came to Sheridan county, Kan., years ago to put on his lion taming act, married a local girl and since then has claimed this as his home county.

K. of C. Organizing Membership Committee

In line with a movement of the Knights of Columbus to increase the membership of the entire country by 10 per cent, Kingston Council No. 275, will tonight hold an organization meeting in this respect in the club house at 8:15 p. m.

It is the intention of the Grand Knight Joseph J. Murphy and the chairman of the membership committee that Kingston Council do its part in fulfilling the wishes of the supreme office at New Haven. The date for the campaign throughout the entire country is set for March 1st to 26th, and it is hoped that during that period Kingston Council will, as it has in the past, exceed its quota.

A large number of the local knights have been contacted and all are anxious that the membership rolls of Kingston Council for this year be higher than it has been in any of its previous years.

It is well to know how to speak in public—also how to keep silent in fulfilling the wishes of the supreme office at New Haven.

Rails Only Issue To Show Strength

Although London market went into new high for 1939, the only issues to show strength on the New York Exchange yesterday were the rails which, with strong operating reports a factor, advanced 0.36 point, to 31.61 in the Dow-Jones averages. Industrial averages were off 0.20 point, to 146.62 while utilities remained unchanged from Saturday's close, at 25.60. Volume was 759,000 shares.

The January deficit of the Class 1 railroads of the country is estimated to have been about $11,000,000, which compares with a deficit of $33,500,000 in January 1938. In the same month in 1937 the deficit was $4,500,000.

There are continuing signs of early activity in the capital markets in which stagnation so long has been the rule of the day. Likely to be filed soon are $22,500,000 of National Distillers debentures and $17,500,000 of Northern Trust debentures. Wisconsin refunding bonds, utility, oil and aircraft companies are considering new money and refunding financing.

The three decisions handed down by the Supreme Court Monday against the National Labor Relations Board are seen as an aid in the drive for amendment of the Wagner Act creating the NLRB. It was the first significant reversal the Board has suffered since its creation. Most significant was the ruling that employees guilty of unlawful conduct, such as violence or sit-down strikes are subject to discharge. Another of importance was the decision that two of the cases adjudged showed that the NLRB orders were not supported by facts of evidence.

Despite the fact that officials of United Aircraft Corp. stated that they had not signed any contract with or granted any credit to China, there are reports from Hong Kong that the Nationalist Premier, Kung had signed a $15,000,000 credit agreement with representatives of United Aircraft in Chungking for the purchase of airplanes.

Steel operations for this week are scheduled at 55.8 per cent of capacity, highest for this year. It is a gain of over two points from last week.

Some further reports on net incomes for 1938 include: Alcoa, $3,920,460, or $1.58 on shares outstanding, compared with net of $10,518,918, or $4.19 on shares outstanding in 1937. Atlantic Refining, $4,310,912, or $1.40 a share, vs. $9,935,045, or $3.51 a share. Mesta Machine, $2,909,957, or $2.91 a share, vs. $4,668,029, or $4.67 a share. Worthington Pump, $29,710, vs. $1,631,979. Armstrong Cork, $1,150,795, or 77 cents a share, vs. $5,187,887, or $3.66 a share. Hour Glass-Henry, $88,230, or 20 cents a share on Class B, vs. $2,117,442, or $2.14 a share on Class B stock in 1937.

Dividend reports yesterday included 20 cents by Ex-cello, 20 cents by Bond Stores, Inc., and 37 1/2 cents by South Penn Oil Co. Pharis Tire & Rubber voted 15 cents and Southland Royalty Co. ordered ten cents on common. Climax Molybdenum Co. voted 30 cents. Goebel Brewing deferred dividend action to March 18 meeting. Johns-Manville Corp. declared regular quarterly of $1.75 on preferred but took no action on common. Last year company made on 50-cents payment on common. First National Stores declared a quarterly dividend of 6 1/2 cents.

The regular monthly meeting of the Kingston Social Mannerclub was held Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kiwus 14 South Wall street. Important business will be reported.

New York, Feb. 28 (AP)—The stock market put on a selective rally today and a number of favorites moved into new high territory for the past year or longer. Gains ranged from 1 to more than 2 points at the best, but profit taking shaded top marks in many cases near the final hour.

Dealings were lively at times, although there were frequent slow intervals. Transfers were at the rate of approximately 1,000,000 shares.

White noise in Wall Street was disappointed over the market's indifferent response Monday to an assortment of fairly bullish news, overnight study of developments, both at home and abroad, seemed to revive optimism even among the most pronounced "show-me" traders.

Strength of U. S. government securities and corporate bonds, firmness of industrial commodities and rising trends shown by European markets apparently helped sustain speculative and investment sentiment.

Steels, motors, rails, rubbers and specialties led the forward swing. Utilities, coppers, aircrafts and oils kept advances to moderate proportions.

At new 1938-39 highs were Union Pacific, General Tire and Rubber, International Harvester, Philip Morris, American Telephone, Southern California Edison and Pacific Gas.

Prominent on the upturn were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Great Northern, Illinois Central and Delaware & Hudson.

Inclined to edge higher in the curb were Aluminum of America, Electric Bond & Share, Bosch Aircraft, Niagara Hudson and Mead Johnson.

Quotations by Morgan Davis & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, 15 Broad street, New York city, branch office 48 Main street, R. B. Osterhout, manager.

TRAINING CAMP BRIEFS

(By The Associated Press)
St. Petersburg, Fla.—Perhaps the happiest of the New York Yankees to open the world champions' training camp is Wesley Ferrell, the veteran hurler who had some bone chips removed from his elbow last fall. Ferrell used his old-time windup and did his first hurling stint without difficulty. He says he has lost the dull ache in his arm for years, adding "all I want is a chance." And in his hey-day Ferrell never won fewer than 20 games a season.

Clearwater, Fla.—Just to show the Dodgers still are the Dodgers, Brooklyn's first training camp session also was marked by the first collision in the outfield. Bill Posey collided with Big Jim Wingo when they were chasing a fungo and was knocked out for a moment.

Hot Springs, Ark.—Although Manager Bill Terry of the New York Giants claims his present team is good enough to win the National League pennant, he's still looking for a trade with Jimmy Riddle as bait. He says Riddle is too good a player to sit on the bench, but every time he tries to start a deal the other club demands Mel Ott or Joe Moore.

Lakeland, Fla.—Freddie Hutchinson, the expensive rookie, hasn't had a chance to show his stuff in the Detroit camp but Manager Del Baker thinks he'll do. Baker was favorably impressed by Freddie's calm manner and decided his disposition at least was up to major league requirements. The Tigers' two question mark pitchers, Schoolboy Rowe and Dizzy Trout, both reported at playing weight.

Orlando, Fla.—Washington's Senators don't quite know what to do about Charley Gelbert, the veteran infielder they grabbed in the draft last fall. They figured to trade Cecil Travis to Detroit, but the deal fell through and now both Gelbert and Ossie Bluege are around for extra infield duty.

Tampa, Fla.—Jimmy Wilson, Cincinnati's new coach, seems really serious about getting back into harness. He has put in an order for catcher's paraphernalia with an idea of filling in now and then for Ernie Lombardi and Bill Hershberger. He's coaching Lee Grissom and Lloyd Moore in their opening workouts.

Cleveland—Cleveland's Indians left a couple of problems behind when their first contingent started for the New Orleans training camp. Mel Harder, still unsigned, remained behind because of illness in his family, and the club announced Pitcher Johnny Broaca had changed his mind about accepting a contract and placed his name on the holdout list.

Pasadena, Calif.—Eric McNair, reporting ahead of the other Chicago infielders and outfielders, is ready to play shortstop for the White Sox. The regular short fielder, is the club's only holdout, having refused a big pay out. The batterymen, after drilling for the photographers settle down to serious work today.

Avalon, Cal.—Manager Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs, jubilant over the possibilities of his pitching staff, says all the fingers but Dizzy Dean will be going full steam in a few days. Dizzy's schedule calls for running, pepper games and light throwing for several weeks as a precaution against re-injuring his pitching arm.

Bergen College
At New Paltz

New Paltz Normal returns home this Friday night at 8:45 o'clock for the final home stand of the '38-'39 basketball season before the alumni game. The guests are to be Bergen College who received a nice drubbing as the result of a New Paltz road trip to New Jersey. This game will probably be the first to see the entire local variety in action since the Albany Business College visit of three weeks ago. The Normal quints has finally hit its stride and raked out overtime session without losing a point. This battle was the hardest-fought, cleanest, and fastest game witnessed on the local court in two seasons and the fireworks are scheduled to boom again when Bergen decides to even the season's count. The Kappas and Commuters of Normal Intramural rivalry will provide the preliminary thrills at 7:30 sharp.

Archibald Loses
To Gilligan

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 28 (AP)—Steelworker Jimmy Gilligan of Hamburg scrambled the already complex featherweight boxing situation last night by giving Joey Archibald, recognized in New York as the world's champion, a 10-round pasting in a non-title fight. A sturdy left hook, varied by right hand chops to the head, won Gilligan an easy decision over the champion from Pawtucket, R. I. The New York State Boxing Commission recognized Archibald's title claims shortly after the abdication of Henry Armstrong. Gilligan has been fighting in this area for about five years. He came here from Pennsylvania to work in the Lackawanna steel mills. Until last night his ring record had not been particularly impressive. The Hamburg fighter weighed 127 and Archibald 124.

Questions
And Answers
About Bee
And His Blackbirds

Clair Bee

By GARDNER SOULE, (AP) Feature Service Sports Editor
Clair Francis Bee, basketball coach at Long Island University in Brooklyn, N. Y., who was guest speaker at the Church League banquet in the Kingston Y. M. C. A. last year, is one of the most successful coaches in America. His games-won-and-lost percentage for the past five years has been .927. Bee's Blackbirds of 1939 are in the running for mythical national-championship honors. Here is some bull-session material about Bee, the boys, and their school.

What is Bee like?
Quiet; friendly; poised. He's 33; from West Virginia.

What is LIU?
A college of 1,500 students (250 co-eds) that gives courses in physical ed., business, journalism, pre-law and pre-med work. It has no dormitories.

Where is the campus?
There isn't much. The school building is a former warehouse located in a crowded section of Brooklyn.

Does the school, then, have unusual facilities for athletics?
No. Bee's team works in a "two-by-four" gymnasium. But it plays in New York's Madison Square Garden (with a capacity of 15,000 fans).

Has basketball been profitable at LIU?
Very. When new school buildings are built, a lot of the dough will come from basketball profits.

Why do so many good basketball players go to LIU?
(1) Because LIU now has a big basketball name. (2) Because Bee, who runs beach resorts in the summer, can help them get summer jobs. (3) Those who enter LIU are ordinary high school players, anyway. But they get more basketball at LIU than at most colleges and develop further.

Where do the players come from?
All from within a radius of 15 miles around New York city.

What is Bee's athletic background?
In high school he captained five or six teams. In college he lettered in five sports: football, basketball, baseball, tennis, wrestling. He has coached most sports, including track.

What is Bee's scholastic background?
He holds several college degrees. He attended Ohio State, Waynesburg, Rider and Rutgers, and probably a few other schools. He teaches accounting at LIU.

What is the "theme" of his life?
Keeping busy. Remember what he did in school and college. And what he is doing now—coaching, baseball, football, basketball; managing summer resorts; leading basketball clinics; teaching accounting.

Does he have any spare time?
Well, he manages to play a lot of golf, and to fly for pleasure often.

What does he like?
Dogs; horses; ice cream sodas; books on business; detective stories; newspapers and news-magazines.

What doesn't he like?
Players who fail to show "spirit"; smoking.

Does he scout rival college teams?
Only rarely.

What does he think about the race rules?
That they are now better than ever.

Poughkeepsie High Tossers
Play Maroon Here Tonight

Tonight at the municipal auditorium, Kingston High School, which had its 25-game winning streak broken recently in the DUSO League, will play a free-lance game with Poughkeepsie.

The starting line-ups for the game:
Kingston: L.P.—Shultis; R.F.—Flowers; C.—Van Buren; L.G.—Dougherty; R.G.—Murphy.
Poughkeepsie: Whitell; Francisco; Seaman; Padney; McDonald.

Despite Kingston's 45-26 win over Poughkeepsie previously, the Bridge City tossers are rated a better chance tonight on account of Milt Dubin and Ray Lindhurst being out of the Maroon lineup. Dubin was removed from activity on the court by a shoulder injury. Lindhurst, by pneumonia. Without these two first stringers, Kingston was forced to bow to Liberty last Friday.

While Kingston was losing to Liberty, Poughkeepsie trounced Newburgh 43-20. Leading the assault were Dick Whitell, Bill Francisco and Bobby McDonald. Stopping these tossers should be a problem for the Maroon tonight. Jess Shultis who made 14

Presbyterians Are Victors

The first two games of the Church Basketball League played on the Y. M. C. A. court last night ran true to form. Comforters nosed out First Dutch 23-19 and St. Mary's defeated Port Ewen 38-22.

For a while it looked as though First Dutch might upset the dope and beat the powerful Comforters. They were leading at the half 14-6 but with the beginning of the third quarter the Comforters found themselves and went on to boost their league standing with another win. Had DeGraft took the scoring honors for Comforters with seven points while Chapin Cooper the "Mighty Mile" of the Church League walked off with the honors for First Dutch with eight. St. Mary's took the lead at the start and never lost it. Boyer Coughlin was again the star for St. Mary's with 12 points while Ferguson kept Port Ewen in the running by contributing 10 points.

Up until the beginning of the third quarter the last game between Presbyterians and Clinton Avenue was close and hard fought but it was then that Presbyterians found the range and proceeded to swamp the once powerful Clinton Avenue combination. 28-15. Dick Whiston led the winners with eight points and Walter Ayers and Cowboy Every each got four for Clinton Avenue.

Kingston's rampaging Colonials entertain the Heurich Brewers of Washington Wednesday at the municipal auditorium.

Of course, all indications point to another victory for Barney Sedran's boys, but the cagy little manager looks not too lightly on the duel.

"We should be able to go to town in a big way," says Sedran, "but I'm still talking to the boys about one of those upsets in the event that the Brewers come here for one of those 'on nights'."

Kingston is anxious to tuck away the Heurichs, then seal the Wilkes-Barre Barons Thursday at White Plains Community Center where they play in one game of a double feature bill, the other game being between the Sphas vs. Vistations.

Commenting on the White Plains program, President John J. O'Brien, of the American League, said: "The Barons easily displayed the outstanding passing of the year in defeating the Jersey Reds last Sunday, after an exhibition of ball handling that kept the Reds from securing possession of the 'apple' for over five minutes at one time."

"The Philadelphia Sphas with 22 games won and eight lost, still have a mathematical possibility of overtaking Kingston, but judging from the remarkable play of Brooklyn Vistations against the New York Jewels last Sunday, in which Al Eposito, of the Dodgers, set a record of 27 points, the task of the Pennsylvania champions is no easy one."

So with the Sphas still contenders for the lead, the Colonials will play heads-up here tomorrow against Washington and against the Barons to keep their grip on the top perch. Right now the Sedranites are two and a half games ahead of the Phillies.

Incidentally, President O'Brien states that Thursday's game with the Barons is the only engagement the Colonials will play away from home, deviating from their regular league schedule.

Wappingers Falls
At White Eagle

The Wappingers Falls basketball team will play the White Eagles at their Delaware avenue court tonight, and Manager Frank Wojciechowski hopes to see his local Polish stars come out on the long end of the tally. Starting time of the game is 9 o'clock. Indications are that there will be lots of action, because both clubs are anxious about victory. There will be two preliminaries, one at 8 o'clock featuring two girls' teams, and one at 7 between the Buccaneers and another junior club.

The White Eagles will use their regular lineup of Duboltz, Janiszewicz, Argulewicz, Tucker, Albright, Nalepa and the Tatarszewski brothers.

WRESTLING LAST NIGHT

Wilmington, Del.—Sander Sabo, 316, Hungary, defeated Nick Camporedo, injured after each had won one fall.

Galveston Anicos Win 50 Consecutive Basketball Games

These photographs show America's greatest girl basketball team: The Anicos of Galveston, Texas.

The Anicos are National A.A.U. champions. They will defend their title in the 1939 national tournament at Wichita, Kas., March 20-25.

In the meantime, the girls, having beaten every team they could find around Galveston, are off on a barnstorming tour that will find them playing 16 games in 18 days.

When our Texas operative, Harold V. Rathliff, last reported, he wrote that the girls had won 50 straight games. In their last 96 games they had lost twice, but they had not lost at all since 1937. They recently defeated a team recognized as strong by a score of 37-2.

The girls are all employed by a Galveston insurance company. They told Jimmy Laughhead, AP photographer, there wasn't a powder puff or lipstick among 'em. You will notice that one of Laughhead's pictures disproves the statement.

Phyllis White of Enid, Okla., is a star. Notice the snappy sweat-shirt.

Miss Jackson this winter scored 225 points in her first 13 games. She is called America's greatest girl basketball player. ...

Miss Williams, a guard, may not score under girls' rules. She is superb as a guard.

Cry of 'Fire' No Novelty

In Victoria, Australia.

"In Victoria, a state in southeast Australia, a region of fine timber, mineral wealth, farm and pasture land, the dread cry of 'Fire!' is no novelty," says the National Geographic society. "The first chapter in the history of this region as an independent colony, around the middle of the Nineteenth century, tells of flaming disaster."

"In 1851 a great bush-fire broke out in the unsettled tracts of grass and forest lands beyond Melbourne, on the southern coast. Following a long dry period, it laid waste to much of the state, destroying millions of dollars worth of timber and grazing land. 'Black Thursday' the Victorians call that day when citizens of Melbourne, choking in the smoke and heat, fought to keep the city from falling victim to showers of embers that fell in the streets."

"Another historic fire in Victoria was the one which burned an enclosure about a large rabbit warren. Less extensive than the disaster of 'Black Thursday,' the small blaze nevertheless had consequences felt to this day. Liberated rabbits have cost Australia untold money in property destroyed and in extermination projects."

"Victoria—the smallest state on the island continent—is the most closely settled part of Australia. This, however, is not much of a record, since the density is only about 20 people to a square mile. France, by way of comparison, has nearly 200. In Victoria, too, as in the rest of Australia, the population is largely concentrated in cities."

Ice in Rondout Is Taking Leave

Ice in the Rondout creek is gradually breaking up and moving out, and today the lower creek was open from near Eddyville to the mouth.

The heavy fog and rain of Sunday softened up the ice to a great extent and the mild temperature of Monday assisted in the break-up.

Above the Eddyville falls the ice is also beginning to break up and if mild weather continues will shortly start moving down the creek.

Residents of Eddyville said this morning that they did not expect any flood damage by reason of the ice fields moving out unless there was an exceptionally heavy rain.

In other years when the ice fields have moved out of the creek it has occasioned considerable damage, and for some years barges and other vessels berthed along the creek docks for the winter have been carried out to the mouth of the creek and there imprisoned in an ice jam.

There has been no jam so far at the mouth of the Rondout creek, and the entire lower creek is now open with but little floating ice.

The ice fields in the Hudson river off Kingston Point are still holding, but the ice has been considerably softened by fog and rain, and if weather conditions continue mild the river fields are expected to break up and start moving out within a short time.

The Coast Guard cutters have been keeping a channel open in the river, but so far no vessels have attempted to use the channel.

No date has been fixed as yet for the resumption of ferry service between Kingston and Rhinebeck. The United States Coast Guard report on river conditions states that there was a drift ice from Newburgh to New York and that the river was open to powered vessels. The cutter Manhattan is now at Newburgh.

Soap Was a By-Product of Ancient Roman Sacrifices

Soap is as old as ancient Rome, although it did not come into common use for many centuries thereafter. Everybody knows that soap is a cleansing agent, but to this day there is a dispute as to just how soap cleans, says the Philadelphia Record. The process was once believed to be chemical, but the scientific theory is that soap removes the greasy particles of dirt by emulsifying the oil that holds them in place. That is, the soap causes the oils to separate into minute globules which mix with the water and are carried off by it.

In ancient Rome, when burnt offerings were made on Sappo hill, the animal fats mingled with the sacrificial ashes, and were washed down the hill into the river. The women of Rome found the river near the foot of Sappo hill best for washing clothes. For a long time this was a mystery, but finally someone put two and two together, and found that it was soap—named for Sappo—and composed basically of two ingredients, fat and an alkali.

Fats are either animal or vegetable. Fat is a chemical compound of glycerin with one or more fatty acids. The alkalies used in soap making are either caustic potash, which yields soft soap, or caustic soda, which gives the ordinary hard soap.

Founded Quaker Sect

George Fox was 19 when he felt the call to preach which resulted in his arrest for disturbing the peace and his establishment of the Society of Friends (Quakers). "Priests, lawyers and soldiers were all obnoxious to him," says a biographer. Consequently, every type of persecution was practiced on the sect in England and the American colonies; for a long time it was a worse crime to be a Quaker than a thief. William Penn was jailed because he was a Quaker; this induced him to come to America. Numbers of Quaker men were put to death in Massachusetts; in New Hampshire Quaker women were stripped and whipped from one town to another, for Quakers were the first to acknowledge the equality of men and women in religion and allow women to preach.

Scotland's Great Bard

The loyalty of Scots to themselves, to their native land and to the memory of the men who have fought and sung for the greater glory of Scotland is one of their most admirable qualities.

And no Scot has merited this loyalty and admiration more than Robert Burns, whose songs and poems are the cherished heritage of the entire English-speaking world.

A great descriptive poet and satirist, as a writer of songs that touch human heartstrings Burns was greater still.

And his fame has steadily increased with the lapse of time.

At the age of 37 death claimed the genius that had already contributed much to the enjoyment of the living for countless generations to come.

Alaska

The Russians held Alaska by right of Behring's discovery in 1741—his explorations having been under the Russian flag—and by the subsequent settlement of the territory. In 1789 the Russian emperor, Paul VIII, granted the land to the Russo-American Fur company. The charter of this corporation, an organization like the Hudson's Bay company, which has played so large a part in the history of Canada, was renewed in 1803, but finally expired in 1867. In 1867, after a good deal of friction and conflict of interests, Alaska was ceded to the United States for $7,200,000.

People of Israel Deemed Leprosy Moral Affliction

Leprosy, curiously enough, to the Israelites, was more a moral than a physical affliction. Segregation was purely ceremonial. If the leper was fortunate enough to have his symptoms disappear a "sin offering" was prescribed by the Book for atonement. For a poor man, the holocaust usually consisted of two pigeons—one pigeon being killed over running water. Then, according to the law the sick man was sprinkled with the blood of the victim before he was allowed admittance into communion with the Children of the Promise.

Historically, leprosy was known to the Egyptians as early as 4000 B. C. In fact, many authorities agree that it made its first dread appearance in the land of the Pharaohs. Pliny, the younger, writing of the spread of the disease in ancient Rome emphatically states that leprosy was unknown to the empire until the era of Pompey the Great, when it was imported from Egypt. Herodotus had another version linking leprosy with Persia where, he writes, a popular belief was given wide credence linking the afflicted with those who had "sinned" against the sun.

Few countries have been free from the ravages of this ghastly disease. America is not an exception. According to well-known authorities leprosy predated the arrival of Columbus, its existence being proved by pieces of ancient pottery representing deformities suggestive of the disease.

Optical Illusions Often Cause of Superstitions

Many dangerous ancient superstitions in regard to miracles, witchcraft, "spells" and the like were based on now easily explained phenomena of vision. After vision, which is the common name for the lingering of visual images, is usually the result of tired, overworked color nerves of the eye. This eyefag alters the true appearance of real objects and also causes persons to see imaginary figures and hues.

Everyone has at some time or other experienced "after vision." Look steadily at a spot of black ink on a white paper for about 30 seconds and then quickly look up at a white or light-colored wall; the area will seem to be dark gray with a white patch on it. This is because the nerve centers previously excited by the black have become excited by the change in color. In the same way, after staring at a red, bright patch, the eye focused on a white object will see a blue-green color.

Strained eyes can well be called "Public Enemy Number One" of the nervous system. In the same way that society provides for the correction of juvenile delinquents, modern individuals should and are learning to correct visual defects and protect their eyes from strain by rest, continual care and the sensible use of proper glasses.

Fame of Formosa

Coded to Japan by China in 1895, Formosa is famous for one of the most unusual fences in the world. Called the Ayu-Sen, or guard line, it extends for more than 360 miles, of which 230 are electrified. Its purpose is to keep back the Chin-hwan, or "wild savages," who live in the interior and raid the civilized communities which cling precariously to a narrow belt of coastline. The savages number more than 100,000 and are divided into 146 tribes. They practice head-hunting. For currency, salt is used. Instead of priests they have priestesses. These women act as "rain destroyers." It rains so much in Formosa that "rain-making," practiced among primitives of dry climates, gives way to savage incantations to prevent rainfall.—Washington Post.

Penguin Eggs

Penguin eggs are a great delicacy in Cape Town and other South African cities. Robin Island in Table bay, a barren bit of land once a leper colony, serves as a penguin preserve and enough eggs are collected there yearly to meet the demand. The eggs are the size of billiard balls and are exceptionally tasty as well as having high nutritive value. They must be boiled from 20 minutes to a half hour, which causes the bluish jelly encasing the yolk to become firm. They are much sought after by South African gourmets.

The 1844 Dime

One of the time honored questions which puzzle numismatists is what happened to the 1844 dime. According to mint records 72,500 dimes were struck in 1844 and only 31,300 in 1845, yet the former date is much harder to find, and consequently, twice as valuable. Many answers have been suggested to this question, and one guess is as good as another. Coin dies were once used until worn out, so it is possible that most of the 1844 issue bore earlier dates.—Detroit Coin club.

Petroleum Refining

Fractionating "towers," which separate substances having different chemical and physical properties, are the very heart of petroleum refinery processing. Of the thousands of them employed in the industry, many allow six different products to be withdrawn at one time.—American Chemical society.

Abandon Sitdown Strike

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 28 (AP)—Carl J. Shipley, local executive secretary of the United Automobile Workers of America (CIO), said today union members at the Bendix Products Corporation's aircraft plant here abandoned a sitdown strike because of a United States Supreme Court ruling that such strikes were illegal.

QUESTIONED IN DANCER'S DEATH

Beulah Ann Stanley, (above) roommate of slain Anja Sosoyeva, dancer, whose body was found on Los Angeles City College Campus, and Kermit Anderson, 21, (also above) and accountant who had "kept company" with Miss Sosoyeva, were questioned in an attempt to shed light on the mysterious killing. Both gave accounts which placed them away from the scene of the crime.

FACES MURDER CHARGE

Charles Wilson, 25, legless pencil peddler is shown as he was questioned by police in the barroom slaying of Miss Clara Berry, 15, in New Orleans. Detectives Joseph Mock and Edward Shiba said the peddler made a statement that he had stabbed the woman with a pocketknife because she "felt me." Assistant District Attorney Rudolph Becker, Jr., ordered him booked on a charge of murder.

Plan Action Against Hines

New York, Feb. 28 (AP)—Anti-Tammany prosecutors considered tactics today to hasten James J. Hines to prison and avoid snags in removal proceedings against Magistrate Huon Canshaw. District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey announced his determination to oppose vigorously every step in the appeal of Tammany District Leader Hines from a 13-count policy racket conviction which might send him to prison for 27 years. The prosecutor declared there was no basis for the issuance in Hines' case of a certificate of reasonable doubt, which would allow him to stay off a prison term while prolonging his appeal through possibly three state and federal courts.

Ruppert Co. Blames "Ambitious Salesmen"

New York, Feb. 28 (AP)—Cancellation of its license by the state liquor authority will cost the Ruppert Brewery $16,250.

Officials said the brewery, one of the largest in the world, could continue to operate, however, under a temporary license.

The liquor authority in revoking the license yesterday said the brewery had made illegal loans to retail dealers. A $15,000 bond was declared forfeit, and the brewery will have to pay $1,250 for a temporary license until June 1. Attorneys for the brewery, formerly headed by the late Col. Jake Ruppert, millionaire sportsman and owner of the New York Yankees, said the brewery management was "absolutely innocent." They said violated management orders in extending loans and credits to two retailers.

Salvation Army Cites New Needs

A growing need for aid of the poor was stressed today by leaders in the current campaign to raise funds for the local Salvation Army. Widespread unemployment has increased the need of such organizations, it was pointed out, and it is the aim of the workers to raise enough funds to aid substantially in carrying out the program of the local unit.

During the past year, it was stated, a much larger work has been conducted locally than ever before. The last finance campaign fell short of the goal and all funds raised that time were collected and spent some time ago, in accordance with the approved program. As all funds were entirely exhausted before the end of last year, it is absolutely necessary to provide immediately for carrying on the work of this organization for the present year. During 1938, the Army aided families totalling 6,627 persons. Shoes, clothing, furniture, furnishings, toys and Christmas dinners to the number of 12,318 were given free and 14,968 meals and 764 beds were supplied transients, free. Transportation was supplied and employment secured as far as possible. A total of 1,131 poor families were visited and 1,120 meetings conducted in the buildings, on the streets, and in the jail. These meetings had a total attendance of 51,623.

A check-up of local conditions has indicated greater need for the Army here this year. There has been no improvement in the material condition of the very poor, who can look only to the Army for certain services supplied them by no other organization.

A large committee of leading citizens has been formed to conduct this year's campaign for $5,000. The committee is headed by Pratt Boice, general chairman, and John H. Saxe, treasurer. The Women's Division is headed by Mrs. Chauncey H. Main. The Men's Division is headed by Mr. Boice as chairman.

The modest budget for this very great work is made possible because of the Army's extremely low overhead. Checks may be mailed to Salvation Army, Kingston, payable to John H. Saxe, treasurer.

James A. Loughran, County Superintendent of Highways, addressed the Lions Club at the regular meeting last evening held at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Mr. Loughran was sent to the Lions meeting upon the recommendation of Miss Katherine Murphy, county nurse. He gave a talk on the work being done with tuberculosis patients and showed movies of Camp Happyland, where undernourished children are given a month of happy camp life under supervision and from which they return in better health. In addition to the camp pictures Mr. Loughran showed scenes of the heavy snow storm in 1932 and spoke of his work as superintendent of highways.

The output of central electric stations in Canada totalled 25,994,238 kilowatt hours during 1938.
